50,000 China Troops Face 25,000 Japanese At Shanghai

Heavy Gunfire Is Believed Start of New Chapei Battle

Observers in International Settlement Report Activities Expected to Develop Into Big Japanese-Chinese Fight

JAPANESE TROOPS HAVE MANY WEAPONS

Canadian Press and Associated Press Dispatches

Shanghai, Feb. 15.—Heavy gunfire crashed in the Chapei sector soon after dark this evening, ending a day of comparative quiet, and observers in the International Settlement thought it might be the beginning of the big push in which 25,000 Japanese will be thrown against a Chinese army twice as big.

Heavy artillery was blazing from the Japanese lines and Chinese trench mortar batteries responded weakly. The fire seemed to be concentrated on Chapei and the armies at Woon-sung had not resumed their engagement.

By Morris J. Harris, Associated Press Correspondent

Shanghai, China, Feb. 15.—Upward of 85,000 troops were massed in the Shanghai-Woon-sung area late today, according to official reports. The various nations awaiting a tremendous battle which promised to put far in the background all previous military action of more than two weeks of heavy fighting.

Fuelgears were reported evacuating interior towns. United States consular authorities advised all citizens of that country in outlying places in the lower Yangtze valley to evacuate these towns and come to Shanghai because of the possibility of widespread hostilities.

25,000 AGAINST 50,000 CHINESE

Thousands of additional Japanese troops landed from four more transports in the river to-day and marched to quarters, accompanied by artillery, machine-gun equipment and a hospital corps and naval headquarters announced further detachments were expected shortly. The total number of Japanese troops here now was given as approximately 25,000.

Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, commander of the Chinese troops in the area, said two new divisions had been added to his army, bringing the total number of Chinese soldiers now ready to oppose the expected big Japanese thrust to 50,000. The two new divisions, the Chinese said, comprised 20,000 men.

The forces of the foreign powers, after the arrival of a French contingent which is expected shortly, will number slightly more than 10,000 troops.

WATCHED IN SILENCE

Thousands of Chinese who lined the streets to-day were silent as the military power of Japan was paraded before them. If there was hostility in their hearts it was not written on their faces. They stared in awestruck bewilderment. Japanese sentries, posted everywhere throughout the district, scrutinized the Chinese crowds, alert to pounce on the first false move.

By James P. Howe, Associated Press Staff Writer

Shanghai, Feb. 15.—A battle that would make hostilities around Shanghai during the last three weeks look like a mere skirmish appeared inevitable to-day as both Chinese and Japanese massed troops and more troops all along the Chapei-Woon-sung battlefront.

The coming of bloodshed on a large scale appeared all the more certain as feverish efforts of neutral mediators to avoid it met with failure at every turn. The British, United States, and French ministers spent all of Sunday seeking a loophole which might open the way for some kind of negotiations, but achieved no tangible results.

Influential Chinese themselves held numerous conferences, trying to conceive some possible peace plan, but the early hours of Monday found them most pessimistic.

BRITISH CABINET DEBATES SHANGHAI

London, Feb. 15.—What was believed to be an important conference of cabinet members on the foreign situation was called late today at the nursing home where Premier MacDonald was convalescing after an operation on one of his eyes.

Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, who had just made a statement in Commons on the Sino-Japanese situation, was among the conferees.

UNITED FORCES' DEFENCES IN FOREIGN AREA OF SHANGHAI

Behind barricades like that pictured above and breastworks of sandbags the British, United States, Italian, French and other armed forces are defending the International Settlement in Shanghai as the augmented Japanese and Chinese armies prepare for a battle expected to be greater than any yet seen since the start of hostilities there. When shells from Japanese guns fell near the British boundary guard Monday, the troops assigned for protection to the British troops during the present conflict between Japanese and Chinese.

The volunteers withdrew immediately as a precaution, but soon resumed their positions and began strengthening their barricades against further possible shelling. The shells which fell in their sector were part of a Japanese bombardment of Chinese positions.

By Morris J. Harris, Associated Press Staff Correspondent

Shanghai, Feb. 15.—Some 3,500 British soldiers are on the job or in reserve, prepared for any emergency in this sector.

The entire western boundary of the International Settlement front, a stretch of about two miles has been assigned for protection to the British troops during the present conflict between Japanese and Chinese.

Although the British are considerably removed from the Chapei fighting area, they are taking no chances of possible danger to their side of the settlement and have established substantial defences.

TO CONTROL REFUGEES
The present problem of the British soldiers is to control the stream of refugees in and out of the settlement and to prevent the use of railroad lines along the western side by armed cars, either Japanese or Chinese.

The chief peril lies in the possibility of a Chinese retreat from Chapei into this area, and possible attempts of combatant troops to find safety in the settlement.

The British forces here include a battalion each of Highlanders, Royal Scots Fusiliers and Lancashire Shires. Two hundred Indian troops and a Hongkong and Singapore artillery unit bring the total to 3,500.

COMPLETE REST FOR MACDONALD

Doctors Order Three Weeks' Holiday For British Prime Minister

Canadian Press

London, Feb. 15.—A three-weeks' complete rest has been ordered for Premier MacDonald so he can recover from a recent operation on his left eye.

An official statement said: "A thorough examination of the Prime Minister's eye was made Sunday, when it was found the result of an operation on the left eye was very satisfactory.

"In order to maintain this good result, however, it is essential for him to have at least three weeks' complete rest. It has been urged on the Prime Minister that his sight requires greater care in the future than it has been receiving."

DAY OF BACKING AND FILLING ON NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Associated Press
New York, Feb. 15.—Cooled by profit-taking, the New York stock market's temperature subsided to-day, although Wall Street saw nothing in the setback to indicate the "enthusiasm" for the government's credit expansion plan had been dissipated.

Net losses of $3 to $4 in principal shares reflected the inevitable acceptance of profits after last week-end's sensational advance. The most active selling was compressed into the first half hour. The list thereafter backed and filled indecisively, closing above the lows. Transactions approximated 2,000,000 shares, a substantial reduction from Saturday's fast pace.

Police Say Plotters May Have Hoped to Damage Basilica and Injure Pope

Associated Press

Rome, Feb. 15.—A quantity of powerful explosive was found to-day in a package discovered Saturday evening near the central altar in St. Peter's Cathedral.

Police said it indicated a plot to bomb the cathedral and possibly to injure the Pope himself.

The package was opened by Italian military officers at Fort Pretextato outside Vatican City. It was turned over to the Italian police by Vatican officials immediately after its discovery.

HEALTH COST IS BIG SUM

Insurance Proposals Will Involve at Least $2,139,278 Annually

On Contributory Basis Government Would Save Over $400,000 Yearly

Compulsory contributory health insurance will cost at least $2,139,278 annually, if brought into effect upon the least expensive basis presented to the government by the legislative commission on health insurance.

Analysis of figures released by the government over the week-end shows that the cost of providing medical service, hospital treatment, medicines and appliances, on a basis insuring 156,380 contributors but not their families, will cost $2,139,278.40. If the whole cost is paid by the insured the charge to every earner of $2,400 or less will be $1.84 each month.

The commission recommends that the government pay two-ninths of the cost, employers pay a like amount and insured pay the balance of five-ninths. On this basis the government would provide $427,855.68, which is slightly more than one-half the statutory grants of $835,000 now made the hospitals, payment of which would cease upon the coming into effect of the insurance scheme.

Last year the province provided the hospitals with $80,000 for special purposes, buildings and equipment, but grants of that type would not necessarily be replaced by the proposed insurance scheme.

HINDENBURG IS CANDIDATE

Consents to Stand in Contest For Second Term as German President

Canadian Press

Berlin, Feb. 15.—President von Hindenburg, German army commander during the Great War and President of the Weimar Republic for the last seven years, to-day decided to accede to requests of millions of Germans that he become a candidate to succeed himself in the coming election.

President von Hindenburg was understood to be planning to issue a statement later in the day from which it would be evident he would make the campaign with the support of the middle and moderate right parties and the moderate left party, the Social Democrats, also was expected to rally to his standard.

JUDGMENT FOR $103,666 GIVEN

Mr. Justice Fisher Decides For Theo Frontier and Co. Against Solloway-Mills

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Feb. 15.—Judgment for $103,666 has been handed down in the B.C. Supreme Court by Mr. Justice A. I. Fisher against I. W. C. Solloway, who was last reported in France, and his partner, Harvey May, who is believed to be in the United States, and their companies, Solloway, Mills and Company Limited and Solloway, Mills (B.C.) Limited.

The successful plaintiff is W. T. Johnson, who sued as trustee in bankruptcy of Theo. Frontier and Company Limited, a Kamloops firm of stock brokers.

The plaintiff claimed $238,580 allegedly remitted to Solloway-Mills in Vancouver on margin account for the purchase of shares, also $15,197 allegedly received by the defendants from the sale of Frontier and Company's collateral securities; and alternatively, $266,125 damages. At the close of the case, plaintiff's counsel conceded he could not hope to recover more than $104,000.

Group of Farmers in Canada 1,000 Strong Reported to Desire Land

Mexico City, Feb. 15.—Applications of a group of more than 1,000 foreign farmers reported to be from Canada, for permission to colonize large undeveloped agricultural sections in the state of Chihuahua, have been referred to the Secretary of Agriculture here for disposition.

The federal government recently has not looked with favor on colonization groups from Canada and the United States.

The present applications state the group is amply financed to develop its own agricultural community and convert undeveloped lands to productive channels.

Small Nations State Disarmament Views

Turkish, Norwegian and Portuguese Delegates Heard To-day at World Conference at Geneva

By George Hamilton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Geneva, Feb. 15.—The smaller nations are having their say at the world disarmament conference. General discussion is expected to continue for the remainder of the week. Then will come the formation of expert commissions which will endeavor to find some common denominator from the mass of proposals that have been submitted.

The German thesis of equalization of armaments was supported by Tewfik Ruzhdi Bey, Turkish Foreign Minister, to-day. He agreed with the United States that military alliances had not resulted in the maintenance of peace. "The only alliance which should be allowed," he urged, "is the alliance of civilized nations against the uncivilized."

NO NEW ARMY WANTED

Turkey would support the French proposal for an internationalized force if it meant the creation of an additional army, then Turkey must align itself with its critics, he said. "Nor did Turkey think new rules for humanizing war were enough. The armistice was to end war itself."

NORWAY'S VIEWS

Erik Colban of Norway favored budgetary limitation of armaments, with a guard against the clandestine manufacture of arms.

Commandant Branco of Portugal thought that in compulsory arbitration lay the hope of peaceful settlement.

TORY CAUCUS FACES MUSIC

Conservative Unanimity Is Sought on Contentious Subjects Before House Opens

Cabinet, Liquor Board and Redistribution Among Burning Subjects

Most of the Vancouver members of the B.C. Legislature and a number from interior points arrived in Victoria over the week-end and, although the representation was not complete, the first of a number of stormy Conservative caucuses was under way at the Parliament Buildings this morning.

A divergence of opinion on many matters has been clearly apparent among government members and even among members of the cabinet, since the last session, and compromises and clashes on some points are forecast in efforts to create a united party front in legislative debates. In platform utterances since the last session many of the members have frankly scored the government on stands from which it has shown no intention of wavering.

REDUCTIONS DEMANDED

A reduction in the cabinet and the liquor board promises to be one of the first bones of contention of the caucus. Front benches of the party have announced their intention of carrying the economy programme to these two expensive branches. It is freely forecast the liquor board will be cut down to one member.

Redistribution is a problem on which Conservatives are striving with difficulty for unanimity. Some members are in favor of eliminating at least eight seats by extending the limits of certain ridings and reducing representation in others. Others want to stand for a cut in the number of seats from 48 to 40.

REBUTAL PLAN

Colonel Fred Lister, Conservative member for Creston, is one of the members with a definite plan to place before the caucus.

"I am going to propose that the present number of Legislative Assembly representatives be reduced by eighteen," Col. Lister said, "but I will certainly not stand for a cut in the number of representatives of the interior and north."

APPROPRIATIONS COMPARED

By services the chief reductions in to-day's main estimates for 1932-33, as compared with the total amounts voted for the current fiscal years, 1931-32, are:

Public works	9,000,000
Railways and canals	6,000,000
Post office	4,600,000
National revenue	4,600,000

National defence	2,600,000
Pensions	2,500,000
Civil government	1,700,000
Mail subsidies and steamship subsidies	1,100,000

AVIATION CUT

Appropriations for aviation are cut heavily. In the main estimates for 1932-33, as compared with the total amounts voted for the current fiscal years, 1931-32, are:

Aviation	3,700,000
Trade and commerce	3,500,000

HEAVY GUNFIRE IS BELIEVED START OF NEW CHAPEL BATTLE

Although the Japanese completed landing of soldiers from seven transports at Woonung and in the International Settlement yesterday, large numbers of stevedores were still busy early to-day unloading equipment obviously intended for a "big push."

The Chinese meanwhile continued to dig into their positions and declared they would die before they gave in.

The Chinese manpower was said to be greater in numbers than the Japanese, but their equipment, observers believed, was far inferior.

Out of the holds of the Japanese transports came tanks, howitzers, light and heavy artillery, aerial bombs and cavalry equipment.

Many Mongolian ponies and mules which apparently were intended to give the Japanese greater mobility in the marshy grounds in the Shanghai region, where tanks might be handicapped, were brought ashore.

LANDINGS PROTESTED

Foreign ministerial officials to-day said they would call their governments' attention to the landing of thousands of Japanese troops in the International Settlement.

It was said the Japanese gave the British Consul-General, J. F. Brennan, a definite promise last week that further Japanese troops if brought ashore would not disembark in the International Settlement. At that time the Japanese Consul-General, Kuramao Mura, said no landing of troops in the Settlement was contemplated.

CONTRADICTORY STATEMENTS

The latest word from the Japanese officials as to their intentions on the Shanghai front was contradictory. Early Sunday, Lieut.-Gen. Kenkichi Ueda, commander of the Japanese land forces, denied a big Japanese offensive was at hand and explained the sole object of coming to Shanghai of large forces was to make the place safe. He added he still hoped for peaceful settlement involving voluntary withdrawal of the Chinese "a safe distance."

Late yesterday evening Rear-Admiral S. Shimada, commanding the naval forces of the Japanese, told correspondents that in view of the Chinese attitude it probably would be necessary to "strike them out."

ADmiral INTIMATED

The admiral intimated that if the Japanese were to withdraw from the Shanghai front, they would have to be driven back perhaps thirty miles from the boundaries of the International Settlement.

MORE TROOPS TO LAND

Shanghai, Feb. 15.—Japanese naval headquarters announced late to-day that further detachments of Japanese troops were expected to arrive here shortly in addition to the thousands landed yesterday and to-day. Officials declined to say how many were expected in the next group, or when it would arrive.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—One-quarter million dollars is being provided for expenses to be paid out of the public treasury in connection with the Imperial Economic Conference. The appropriation is asked for in the main estimates, tabled in the commons this afternoon.

There are a number of provinces and allowing the Vancouver representation to remain unchanged.

"In this proposal I am not selfish, as the suggestion I have to offer will eliminate the firing of Creston which I now represent."

TAXES UNDER FIRE

Many of the economy measures which provide knotty problems for the caucus arise at some of its sponsors.

Attorney-General Pooley faced with the proposal of the abolition of the Provincial Game Board which he organized with such care as soon as he had the power in his hands.

The proposed cut in the grant for the University of B.C. promises to be another matter that will stir considerable bitterness in caucus discussions.

There is also reported to be considerable difference of opinion on the proposal to increase the gasoline tax from five cents to seven and also the suggested amusement tax increase.

The government's method of handling unemployed and its plans for the future stands out as the greatest problem of all.

MEMBERS HERE

Among members of the Legislature arriving in Victoria during the week-end were: J. W. Berry, Delta; Tom Uphill, Fernie; J. E. Mitchell, Kamloops; Col. Fred Lister, Creston; J. H. Schofield, Rossland-Trail; William Dick, Vancouver; Capt. James Fitzsimmons, Kelso-Slocan; J. W. Cornett, South Vancouver; Dr. L. E. Borden, Nelson; G. W. Walker, Vancouver, and T. Kirk, Vancouver.

Premier Tominie is well on the way to recovery from his recent illness and in his absence Mr. Pooley is carrying the burden of care of the office. For the early part of the session at least it is expected the leader of the government will not be often in the House.

Britain and U.S. Express Objections to Japanese Troops in Shanghai Foreign Area

At Tokio Foreign Minister Explains to British, U.S. and French Ambassadors

Canadian Press and Associated Press Dispatches

Washington, Feb. 15.—Great Britain and the United States have again protested against Japan's use of the International Settlement in Shanghai as a military base for attacking the Chinese outside the settlement.

Nanking, Feb. 15.—The Chinese National Government to-day again protested to the British Government against continued landing of Japanese troops in the International Settlement at Shanghai, claiming it constituted a violation of the Settlement's neutrality.

TALKS WITH AMBASSADORS

Tokyo, Feb. 15.—The British, United States and French Ambassadors were invited by Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa to visit the Japanese Foreign Office to-day. It was understood the Foreign Minister planned to explain Japan's reasons for having sent large forces of additional troops to Shanghai and also what Japan considers the necessity of driving back the Chinese army from the city if it fails to withdraw voluntarily.

BRITISH PROTEST

London, Feb. 15.—The British Consul-General at Shanghai filed with the Japanese authorities there on Saturday the fourth protest which Great Britain has made since the conflict at Shanghai began. The Foreign Office announced to-day.

The protest, which was signed by the British Consul-General, stated that the Japanese authorities were to-day again protesting against the landing of thousands of Japanese troops in the International Settlement.

It was said the Japanese gave the British Consul-General, J. F. ## PARLIAMENT IS ASKED TO PROVIDE $356,773,794 FOR YEAR ENDING MARCH 31, 1933

ernment is asking the House to vote $1,962,750.

For the Department of Pensions and National Health, the sum of $11,018,000 is asked for in the main estimates, tabled to-day.

National revenue appropriations are cut from $14,806,361 in the main estimates of last session to $11,232,000 in to-day's estimates.

POSTAL SERVICE CUT

The Post Office Department also shows a cut of nearly $5,000,000. The provision in the main estimates last year for the Post Office service was $26,239,975. The estimates tabled to-day ask for $21,451,100.

Other departments which show decided decreases are Trade and Commerce, for which $8,181,000 was provided in last session's main estimates, and $5,055,335 in those just tabled to-day.

FOR RAILWAYS

The appropriation for railways and canals (capital) asked to-day is $5,111,300 as compared with $1,943,311 in the last session. Appropriations for railways and canals (collection of revenue) in the estimates just tabled total $2,822,220 as against an even $3,000,000 at the last session.

For interest on the public debt the sum of $19,746,294 was asked in to-day's main estimates. The main estimates of last session appropriated $12,471,332 for this purpose.

FOR IMMIGRATION

An appreciable cut in the provision for immigration and colonization is shown. The amount appropriated in the last session's main estimates was $464,595. The main estimates for last session appropriated $2,158,000 for this department.

For soldier and general land settlements $7,500,000 is asked in the estimates of to-day. Last session the government asked for $1,960,000.

The Department of Mines and the Geological Survey is asked for an appropriation of $225,300 in to-day's estimates as against the total of $729,100 last session.

FOR R.C.M.P.

Notable in the long list of decreases is an increase in the appropriation for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. For that department the sum of $3,399,595 is appropriated, as against $3,176,341 in last session's main estimates.

When the main estimates are introduced each year there is no foreboding of what the supplementary estimates will be. On July 27 last, for the 1931-32 year, supplementary estimates of $12,809,634 were brought forward. An additional $1,400,000 was brought down.

Supplementary estimates for 1930-31 of $8,500,000 were also brought forward. For the same year the Canadian National Railways, the Canadian National Steamships and the Maritime Freight Rate Act were $13,084,000.

TRAPPER STILL EVADES POSSE

THROUGH VALLEYS

Although Johnson has been on the run this time for a week, he is not far from where the chase started. He continued his flight by traveling up one valley and down the next frequently back-tracking and circling to leave a trail like a Chinese puzzle.

However, he crossed the border from the Northwest Territories into the Yukon and late yesterday was heading in a general westerly direction.

HIS ACTIVITIES

Johnson's exploits since he came to the bleak Rat River country resemble those of a desperado. He was charged with playing pranks with the trap lines of local Indians, his rivals in the quest of furs. They complained to police and Johnson shot through his cabin door and wounded one of the two constables who dared to intrude on his hermitage. He withstood an attack on his cabin by police, who blew the roof off with dynamite and were forced to retire for supplies. He was later cornered in an improvised fort, where, it is charged, he shot and killed Constable E. Millen. He eluded three men who watched his barriade from out of range of his rifle and since then his trail in the snow has been followed by an increasing band of pursuers.

While two crack musketeers were believed closing up on him to-day, the posse farther back was composed of more than a score of R.C.M.P. men, trappers and Indians.

FROM ST. PAUL

Waukegan, Wis., Feb. 15.—Belief was expressed here to-day by Mrs. Enoch Graham, John's mother, that her son was sought by Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the Northwest Territories and the Yukon for the slaying of Constable E. Millen, killed by her son, formerly of St. Paul, Minn.

"My mother's brother left St. Paul eighteen years ago to hunt and trap in Northern Canada in the vicinity of the Rat River," Mrs. Graham said. "His name was Albert Johnson. We have not heard from him for the last eight years."

She said she planned to send a photograph of her uncle to Alkiviak, N.W.T., headquarters of the posse now pursuing Johnson.

RIGHT FIGHTING RIGHT IN ORIENT, SAYS MASSEY

CANADA VITALY INTERESTED

Mr. Massey declared that Canada had many reasons for active interest in what is happening across the Pacific from this British Columbia Coast.

"No disturbance as grave as this and which affects its immediate proximity one-third of the population of the world can ever well be isolated," Mr. Massey went on.

"As a matter of fact, we have not forgotten the lesson which we learned in 1914 of what an obscure crime in a Balkan state can mean."

CANADIAN TRADE AFFECTED

"Our trade with the Orient is now of sufficient volume to make us watch Manchuria with an increasingly anxious eye. I have heard it maintained recently that the Far Eastern crisis is actually assisting us through the goods which China is ordering from Canada instead of from Japan, with which country she has, for the time being, refused to trade. It is no doubt true that we are enjoying a temporary advantage for this reason, but I think you will agree that for the few thousands and dollars' worth of trade which this may temporarily bring us, we are likely to lose tens and scores of thousands in the loss of purchasing power suffered by that very promising customer of ours, Japan, as a result of this Manchurian crisis."

WOMEN'S CHIEF FRICITION POINTS

"The incident of September 18 last, when the Japanese general staff took it on itself to administer the sharp lesson, which for some time they had been itching to apply to the Chinese, is, as we know, only one new page in a melancholy chapter of trouble of which Manchuria has been the cause for a century. This area has come to be one of the world's great friction points—it was going to say one of the world's two great friction points, because of the two regions—one in Europe and one in Asia, which offer a perpetual puzzle to international peace—the former lying near the gates of the world, the latter the Polish corridor was made to sever German territory. There is an analogy between the two. Leaving the rights and wrongs of the case to one side, they each of them represent a situation created and maintained by force, where the only answer to force on the part of the weaker power is a counterforce of a more or less permanent and a constantly threatening restlessness."

JAPAN'S ECONOMIC NECESSITY

"Japan's case is impressive. First of all comes the argument of economic necessity. Japan is faced with the problem of growing population and inadequate food supply. The solution can only come from a steady process of industrialization—Manchuria is the only place where this can be done. Japan is, for instance, produces only one-twentieth of the iron ore which her industrial life depends and the fertilizer which is needed for her ancient fields, and fuel oil and even foodstuffs. Japan is not in a position to produce these things. She must import them. Japan's economic necessity is that she must have Manchuria. Japan's economic necessity is that she must have Manchuria. Japan's economic necessity is that she must have Manchuria."

"It is no wonder that the trade of Japan with Manchuria has increased in the last twenty years twelve-fold until now, to judge from the trade figures, the Manchurian provinces of China are more important to Japan than they were even to China proper. More than half their external trade is with the Japanese Empire."

"BLOOD AND TREASURE" TALK

"Then there is the argument of 'blood and treasure.' You have only to hear a Japanese speak of the siege of Port Arthur, although it is now nearly a generation away, to realize what this feeling evoked by the loss of Port Arthur meant to the Canadian corps. Port Arthur meant to Japan, Japan's achievement in Manchuria began with the capture of Port Arthur. It was the key to full national stature. Her pride in this is a powerful element in the present crisis. She has paid a vast price in blood and treasure to hold Port Arthur. There is no doubt whatever of the treasure which has been poured into Manchuria. In twenty-five years it is estimated that Japan and the Japanese have invested one thousand million dollars in the development of Manchurian industry and agriculture."

RAILWAY AND DEVELOPMENT

"Practical people, such as we Canadians are, cannot help being impressed by the argument of efficiency which appeals to us perhaps more strongly than to the idealists. This represents, as a matter of fact, the greatest migratory movement in modern history, and there is still room for plenty of settlers for it is estimated that Manchuria can support over twice her present population."

JAPAN'S "SOVIET BARRIER" ARGUMENT

"Japan claims that she has for twenty-five years ago she checked the expansion of imperialism in Russia, she now provides the eastern barrier to the ambitions of the Soviets. But the Chinese answer to this claim is that the most Russian danger from Russia is not Russian bayonets but bolshevistic ideas. The present aim of Russia is not the acquisition of Chinese territory through any overt act, but rather the conquest of Chinese minds through propaganda."

"Chinese have told me that during these weeks of disillusionment through which the nationally-conscious Chinese are passing, the temptation to turn to bolshevism, despite the efforts of the government on the other

V. KNIGHTSMITH DIES IN LONDON

London, Feb. 15.—William Knightsmith, for forty years the most prominent professional toastmaster in Great Britain, died yesterday. He was seventy-three years old.

Knightsmith started life as a dancing instructor and eventually acquired a reputation for his ability to conduct the formalities of after-dinner proceedings. Arrived in a scarlet coat, black knee breeches and buckled shoes—the uniform was his own creation—his voice powerful yet decorous, he would still the largest company chattering over coffee.

Every dinner-out among the great; from the Prince of Wales down, appreciated his ability.

MOVIE TRIAL IS CONCLUDED

Judgment Reserved After Lengthy Hearing in Toronto

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice Charles G. D. in non-jury cases when trial of N. L. Nathanson, Samuel Bloom, I. S. Fine and fifteen motion picture concerns charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade, ended Saturday. The trial lasted three weeks. Offering of final argument and interpretation of evidence by six defence counsel concluded the trial. No evidence was offered by the defence.

The charges arose out of castigation of the motion picture industry of Canada, conducted last spring by Peter White, K.C.

AGED COUPLE FOUND DEAD

Husband Dies and Wife, Seeking Aid, Succumbs to Cold in Saskatchewan

Canadian Press
Regina, Feb. 15.—After sixty-six years old husband died in the kitchen of their farm home fifteen miles south-east of Weyburn, Mrs. James Brown, aged seventy-one, lost her life Saturday morning in an unsuccessful attempt to gain aid at the residence of a neighbor, half a mile away.

The body was found by the side of the road, protected from the twenty-two below zero weather and the biting wind by only a cloth coat, almost at the door of the house from which she had sought aid.

George Woodcock, driving to Weyburn, saw the body by the side of the road, stopped his car and found the aged woman dead. He telephoned the R.C.M.P. and Dr. J. P. McGillivray at Weyburn and, taking the body to the Brown home, half a mile away, found the body of the husband on the floor of the kitchen.

Corporal Tadmam of the Weyburn detachment of the R.C.M.P. and Dr. J. H. Allen, coroner of Drinkwater, were notified and together they pieced the story.

DIED FROM INFLUENZA

A cold from which Mr. Brown had suffered two weeks ago had been followed by an attack of influenza, according to information gained by Dr. Allen, and the aged man had succumbed.

His death evidently took place Saturday morning sometime and the aged widow set out for the home of a neighbor half a mile away to get aid. The extreme weather proved too much for her, however, and she died from exposure almost within shouting distance of the neighbor's residence.

TRIED TO RAISE

Dr. Allen, in the snow showed where the man had attempted to rise several times. Dr. Allen said. The body was not frozen when found.

No inquest is planned on either death, according to Dr. Allen, but investigation is being continued by the police. The couple led a semi-isolated life and little is known of them outside of the fact they had relatives in Ireland, and had been residents of the district for the last thirty years.

EMPIRE CABINET IS SUGGESTION

London Papers Propound Scheme For New Institution of Commonwealth

London, Feb. 15.—Sunday newspapers here suggested an Empire cabinet, comprising a representative of each dominion and two or three British statesmen, would be a valuable institution at the present time.

The newspapers reached this conclusion after the appointment of Rt. Hon. Stanley M. Melbourne-Bruce, Assistant Treasurer of Australia, as "Minister Representative of the Commonwealth" in Great Britain.

Sir John Marriot, constitutional authority, in an interview said he hoped Mr. Bruce would remain a member of the Australian cabinet during his stay in London. He suggested the addition of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner; Rt. Hon. J. G. Goheen, Minister of Public Works of New Zealand; and General Jan Christian Smuts, leader of the opposition in the South African House of Assembly, to form the nucleus of a "real imperial executive."

NOTED MONTREAL CLERIC IS DEAD

Montreal, Feb. 15.—The Venerable Archdeacon John Patterson-Smyth, distinguished Anglican cleric and writer of note on religious subjects, died here yesterday at the age of eighty. He retired from the rectory of St. George's parish church in 1936 after nearly twenty years' ministry.

Dr. Patterson-Smyth came to Canada from Ireland where he had held appointments both pastoral and academic.

Among his writings "The Gospel of the Heart," "The Man Who Died in Battle" and "People's Life of Christ" achieved wide circulation on this continent and in Great Britain.

INTEREST NOTED IN FELLOWSHIPS

Ten Awards to Be Made By Royal Society of Canada

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—Widespread interest is being manifested in the ten traveling research fellowships to be awarded Canadian students this spring by the Royal Society of Canada. The fellowships, valued at $1,500 each, are donated from the Carnegie Endowment Fund and the winners must undertake traveling research work in any of the branches of science, economics or literature.

At a meeting of the Royal Society fellowships board in Ottawa Saturday it was decided all applications for fellowships, together with supporting papers, must be in the hands of the secretary of the board in Ottawa not later than March 15. Applications will be carefully considered by a special committee. There are five of these committees, representing five divisions of science or literature.

Safe-blowers Get $40 in Vancouver

Vancouver, Feb. 15.—A blast that tossed debris against a garage sixty feet away tore the door off the safe in the Vancouver Carbonate Ltd. office at 2197 West Eleventh Avenue here and netted the cracksmen $40 in cash late Saturday evening. The theft was discovered by George Peachy, plant engineer, when he visited the premises shortly after 11 o'clock yesterday morning. H. Murdoch, watchman, Kitano Fuel Supply Co., told police he heard a loud blast about 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

CRITICIZES KING OF ROUMANIA

GEN. A. AVERESCU

Bucharest, Roumania, Feb. 15.—General Alexandru Averescu, long an outspoken critic of King Carol's regime, has set political agog with a newspaper article declaring that kings have lost thrones as a result of situations similar to Roumania's.

Previously Gen. Averescu had in public speeches asserted Carol had failed to measure up to hopes aroused by his dramatic return to the throne in 1930.

His latest criticism drew a light report from Premier Jorga in parliament Saturday. The Premier said he hardly knew whether to take the "hint" of the general as a joke or call in the public prosecutor. Parliament gave three rousing cheers for "Good King Carol."

Indications that all might not be quiet politically were read, however, in reports that various high officials were in disagreement as to the handling of a non-aggression pact with Russia and Roumania's stand on disarmament.

DISTURBANCE AT ONTARIO JAIL

Guards Called on to Quell Unruly Men at Guelph Reformatory

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Inmates of the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph staged a disturbance in the dining-room of the institution last Monday, at which time several inmates were injured.

C. F. Neelands, deputy provincial secretary, said some fifty men created an uproar which ended only when guards were summoned. Economy measures were blamed for the trouble.

Mr. Neelands said the superintendent of the reformatory, John Hunter, had told him that "about fifty of the 500 men in the dining-room at the time started shouting and stamping their feet. Guards were rushed in and removed the men. One of the guards received a cut on the face with a pitcher thrown by one of the prisoners. But it was not serious."

"I ordered an immediate investigation of the complaints. Finding the ringleaders were hardened criminals in the main, and that their complaint was not grounded, they ordered that given ten strokes of the strap," he said.

Mr. Neelands explained economies had been put into effect in the administration of the reformatory, in line with government policy. "We have cut down the tobacco rations and effected other economies, but the men have no reason to complain," he declared.

NEW U.S. CREDIT BILL SPEEDED

Expected Glass Measure Will Be Passed By Congress This Week

Washington, Feb. 15.—The United States Congress is ready this week to permit the government to launch its fourth and most radical bolt at depression. Almost certainly the Glass-Steagall Bill allowing a broadening of the credit base of the country and the expansion of its currency by $750,000,000 will be rushed through in a few days.

Since last June the Hoover administration, in contrast with its previous policy, has been most vigorous in its attack on the bad conditions of business, successfully proposing a moratorium in Europe, the establishment of the National Credit Corporation and the Reconstruction Corporation. All these moves advanced the price of securities, but business itself remained lethargic.

The industrial production index of the Federal Reserve for the last month available, December, 1931, shows business 29 per cent below normal. The annual review of the Department of Commerce, released Sunday, shows a continued general decline for the last week.

Now the administration has proposed a plan which is tantamount to inflation of the United States dollar; its immediate effect is a mild bull market in New York with a turnover last Saturday of 2,500,000 shares, with net gains of 2 to 12 points in stocks and higher prices for bonds. On Saturday also wheat prices soared, cotton was up and other commodity markets were strong.

SEVERAL HURT IN CLASH IN SPAIN

Barcelona, Spain, Feb. 15.—Several persons were wounded at Tarrasa today when a group of infantrymen was rushed from here to put down a group of striking extremists who had raised a red flag over the Municipal Building and taken over the city administration.

When the soldiers arrived they forced the surrender of the strikers and routed another group which had besieged the barracks of the local civil guard. Tarrasa is an industrial city of about 40,000 population. Most of the residents are employed in textile mills. Police and strike agitators exchanged pistol shots throughout the morning, but no casualties were reported from these affrays. Ten anarchists carrying pistols were arrested.

Hill, 3047 East Twenty-ninth Avenue, who was found dead on the British Columbia Electric Railway Company's interurban trestle at Kingsway and Gladstone about 12:30 a.m. Sunday. ## WAR HISTORY BOOK ADVOCATED

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—"The Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League is in daily receipt of inquiries from all over the country as to when Canada's official history of the Great War is to be published," said Major John S. Roper, M.C., K.C., president of the Legion, here yesterday evening.

Major Roper, commenting on the publication of a book of battle was histories, declared that beyond one supplementary volume issued by the government, nothing had been written on the operations of the Canadian Corps.

"The Legion has consistently urged the Government of Canada that the time has arrived when the preparation of a history of Canada's part in the Great War should be undertaken forthwith while those who led our troops therein and those who actually participated in the great struggle are still alive to ensure that such history, when published, shall be a true record of the sacrifices, the sufferings and the achievements of our soldiers, sailors and airmen," said Major Roper.

NEW DEFENCE ASSOCIATION

Col. W. W. Foster of Vancouver was elected president of the Canadian Infantry Association.

STATE HEALTH INSURANCE

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT questions the Legislature will be called upon to consider during the session which will commence on Wednesday will be the final report of the commission on state health insurance. A comprehensive document—of which a summary has been made public—is now in the hands of the government, the exhaustive nature of which indicates that the investigating body has put in a great deal of hard work and inquiry. It has given the Legislature practically all the information it requires upon which to base its policy.

The main recommendation of the commission is a system of compulsory health insurance for those receiving less than $2,400 in the way of salary or wages. This would insure to them free medical services, including drugs and appliances and hospitalization when necessary, while persons whose income is in excess of $2,400 a year would be permitted voluntarily to take advantage of the scheme if they so desired. The report suggests a series of alternative plans on a contributory basis, in which employee, employer, and the state would participate, while others show the cost to the employee if borne by him or her entirely.

For example, under what the commission describes as its minimum proposal, the government and the employer would contribute two-ninths, leaving the employee to pay only sixty cents a month. If the employee paid it all, his monthly bill would be $1.14, while if a maternity benefit of twenty-five dollars were added, the total cost to employee would be $1.25, or sixty-eight cents with the government and the employer contributing the difference. There is then a plan to cover dependents of the insured person, including the maternity benefit mentioned, which would cost the insured person $2.72 monthly, or $1.50 with aid.

A further plan is designed to include sick benefits and a cash allowance of from one to one-half dollars a day during the period of incapacity, including special benefits, which would cost the insured person from $2.88 to $3.53 per month, or from $1.57 to $1.93 if the cost were shared by the government and the employer. Insured persons would be given free choice of doctors within reasonable limits.

Apart from the vital consideration that a compulsory health insurance scheme would safeguard the health of the province, for the reason that there would not be the delay in consulting a medical man which often is the case now because of fear of the inevitable bill, it would go far to solve the hospital problem, which is becoming more serious from the financial point of view.

It should be noted, moreover, that in order to avoid the necessity of drawing upon the provincial treasury, the commission recommends what it terms a "waiting period" for the purpose of creating a capital fund during the first year of operation. The report also brings out the encouraging information that the government and the municipalities would save half a million dollars a year in the amounts now paid out to hospitals. Indeed, in all the plans submitted, save the most expensive one, the state contribution would be considerably less than present governmental and civic contributions to the hospitals of the province.

The commission is of the opinion the scheme can be made self-supporting, with no added expense to the state or to employers of labor, that it will even mean a saving to employers in amounts now contributed to the Workmen's Compensation Board. These conclusions, incidentally, are supported by the commission's statement that no witness examined by it directly opposed state health insurance, while ninety-nine per cent were strongly in favor.

As Mr. Speaker Davis, who headed the commission, points out, the success of any system adopted will depend upon the manner of its administration. But there should be no serious difficulty in this direction. While the Workmen's Compensation Board has not always escaped criticism, it has been paid many well-deserved compliments, and a central board—supplemented, as recommended, by territorial committees composed of insured persons, employers, the medical profession and community welfare organizations—in charge of such a measure, should be able to operate just as efficiently as any other branch of the public service.

The state's most valuable asset is the human asset. The present system, with its manifold deficiencies, is not the best way to preserve that asset. Our hospitals have to do altogether too much work for nothing, which means that governments and municipalities continually have to go to their aid—and this money indirectly comes out of the pockets of the taxpayers. Nor should a community's health be required to depend very largely upon the proceeds of tag days and other expedients.

"THE UNSEEN ASSASSINS"

WILL THE AVERAGE JOHN SMITH here or in any other part of the world pay any more attention to Sir Norman Angell's new book, "The Unseen Assassins," his latest warning against the futility of war and the necessity for international disarmament, than he did to "The Great Illusion" of twenty years ago? In the new volume the author deals with the various aspects of war, the political, international, and economic, as well as the intellectual and moral sides of the disarmament controversy. He asks his readers to consider this situation:

Here am I, plain John Smith, hard enough put to it to earn my living, provide for my family, and meet the daily drudgery of life; worried about my job or about the decline of my business, and a multitude of domestic problems; yet compelled, whether I will or not, to make, hurriedly, casually, as the result of a mere spare-time attention, decisions in matters which have baffled experts who have spent whole lives in study of them.

The same John Smith pursues the question further and says political specialists tell him "we must disarm" and then naval specialists tell him it would be fatal to peace if Britain were to disarm any more, while just as soon as he plumps for disarmament he finds himself tangled in a choice of policies which means passing judgment on such things "as the wisdom of yielding in some measure to the French point of view on trained reserves; on security; on our commitments under Article 16, under Locarno; on the right size of a battleship for Great Britain; the wisdom or otherwise of maintaining naval bases on the other side of the world; whether it is better to press for budgetary limitation or limitation of material; the problem of the Freedom of the Seas; relations with the United States, and so on."

Although Sir Norman Angell contends that a change in the emotional attitude toward war is indispensable, it is not enough. He reminds us that "a sudden realization of the violence of war is apt to obscure certain other truths about it. . . . war assuredly is vile, but men do not engage in it because they are altogether blind to its violence." We then read further:

When it becomes in men's minds a question of defending their rights, the horrors of war become irrelevant; indeed, the horrors make the act of war more noble. Think of the situation of a young man called upon as a member of his state to resent an insult to it, oppose an injustice, an oppression, and then tell him in the face of that that if he champions the cause of his country he will suffer—suffer gross hardship, filth, mutilation, death. What is the result in his mind? What is the effect of bringing into relief the horrors of war? The effect is to sanctify his act and his sacrifice.

Whether the flood of war novels and war plays has strengthened the cause of peace or not the author does not care to say positively. "In so far as they merely heighten the effect of war's horror," he argues, "they will, unless the horror results in something more than the stirring of the emotions, and prompts an effort to penetrate the moral and intellectual error which produces the situation out of which war arises; unless the emotional stirring has that effect, it will not necessarily do anything at all to lessen the likelihood of war."

Sir Norman supports this contention with the obvious truth that men do not dislike hardship, danger, the risk of death, as—"witness some of their more expensive sports."

The profit profiteers play in creating the desire for war merely for their own ends, the author suggests, is one of the strange myths of the discussion. He asks, however, assuming the profiteers at times are guilty of subtle propaganda to provoke in the minds of the public some sense of resentment, how they would fare if they were compelled to say to the people: "Please give your lives and those of your children in order that our dividends may be increased."

In a general way the author of this new warning against the futility of war tells the world that the "collision of two rights" always has been followed by each side considering itself to be the judge of the dispute. War has been the result; hence, unless pacts for this and that are backed by an accepted code of reciprocal rights, that the right of "self-defence" must not include, as by implication it now does, the right to judge of what one's own rights are in an international dispute, there will always be trouble.

A NEW TRAFFIC PROBLEM

AMONG THE MANY IMPROVEMENTS that automobile manufacturers have built into cars in the last few years is higher speed capacity. Rapid acceleration is the rule, now; so is the ability to cruise along an open road at a mile-a-minute clip without suffering excessive noise and vibration.

But all of this, evidently, has been a gift to motorists who are not ready for it yet. Our automobiles do their job better than we do ours. We are not, on the whole, quite fit to be trusted with fast cars. In 1931 automobile registrations in the United States declined by about two per cent. The number of traffic accidents also fell off. Yet the number of traffic deaths increased by more than three per cent, and the number of severe but non-fatal injuries increased even more.

An insurance company's investigators conclude that increased speed was the factor chiefly responsible. It is hard to disagree with them.

The meaning of this new trend is clear. The odds of death in an auto accident have been shortened. In 1930 there was one death in every twenty-six accidents; last year there was one death in every twenty-five.

Nor does the indictment against the motorist stop there. The pedestrian seems to be getting more cautious; accidents involving pedestrians fell off markedly in the United States last year. Deaths resulting from collisions between two automobiles, on the other hand, shot up twenty-four per cent, and deaths resulting from autos colliding with fixed objects—such, for instance, as lamp posts—also increased materially.

This makes extremely unpleasant reading. It indicates that the average motorist must realize more clearly than ever before the exact nature of the responsibility that rests on his shoulders when he starts out for a drive. It indicates that state and municipal supervision of driving is not nearly stringent enough. It indicates, in fact, that we still fail to appreciate the great seriousness of our automobile traffic death problem.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

ABOLISHING SLAVERY
The Christian Science Monitor

England sends a mission to Abyssinia to investigate slavery conditions. Abyssinian Emperor Selassie invites this to prove that he is moving as steadily as possible toward slavery abolition in Ethiopia. Progress is retarded by the fact that the economic system has been built up on slavery, but slaves are being freed and the Emperor is providing schools for them. Liberia now begins the struggle to stamp out human servitude, the loans so badly needed there being forthcoming on this condition. Thus the Caucasian repays the African. The white brought away the black into bondage, and now white goes back to induce black to set black free.

A THOUGHT

Wisdom is the conqueror of fortune.—Juvenal.

Loose Ends

The public of the wicked city fails to understand us—the Supreme Court keeps its powder dry—and I tell a wild tale of soft-shelled crabs.

By H. B. W.

THE PUBLIC, I gather, is mystified by the goings-on out here in Saanich. It can't understand the secret meetings of the School Board. It wonders at the presence of a policeman to prevent the newspapers attending those remarkable assemblies, as if the newspaper reporters would storm the doors or perhaps blow up the meeting place if they weren't quelled by a cop who, according to the interesting accounts printed in the newspapers, became quite human when piled with cigarettes and lollipops. (How a newspaper reporter came to be carrying lollipops I cannot imagine, unless he knew his policeman.)

WELL, ANYWAY, the public of the wicked city cannot make all these things out. It is amazed at the continual fierce municipal warfare of this country, at the secret meetings, the epic reversals, the historic Battle of Lake Hill before the Kamloops convention, and my gallant crusade to persuade Councillor Wrigglesworth to find our road which has turned out a forlorn hope. The public of the wicked city takes its own public affairs calmly, with no secret meetings, no police, and even no lollipops, that it cannot conceive of the pure pulsating patriotism of Saanich. It doesn't realize yet that we are not like its own effete inhabitants, who vote once a year and don't even bother to complain about the results the rest of the time. It doesn't realize that out here we are the breed of the frontier, the kind of men who wrung Magna Charta from King John and cut off King Charles's head and refused to pay for the North-west Severn. The public of the wicked city doesn't know when it reads of our mighty struggles out here what they are all about. Well, no wonder. We haven't the vaguest idea ourselves.

NOT LONG ago the Supreme Court of the United States refused American citizenship to two Canadians who refused to swear that, in case of war, they would bear arms in defence of their adopted country. A minority of the court held that the essence of religion is belief in a relation to God involving duties superior to any human relation, "but the majority, determined to keep the nation's powder dry, insisted that 'we are a Christian people' . . . but we are also a nation with the duty to defend our territory. This has become a cause celebre. The Christian churches are rallying in the United States to denounce the Supreme Court's decision and are circulating a petition which will be presented shortly to Congress. People who sign this petition declare that they are citizens of the United States, solemnly refuse to acknowledge the obligation which the Supreme Court declares to be binding on all citizens. I have not promised, expressly or tacitly, to accept an act of Congress as the final interpretation of the will of God, and I will not do so. In my allegiance to my country I withhold nothing, not even my life. But I cannot give my conscience. That belongs to God."

ALL THIS has raised a great flurry, and it is useful at a time when another first-class war would settle all these issues automatically by wiping out the entire Christian civilization. But I do not foresee the conflict between religion and the state in case of war which the petitioners fear. In every war I have ever heard of, the church of the warring countries has always backed it to the limit. The preacher will do so again. For every democratic country goes to war by the wish of its people, it knows it is doing the right thing, as its conscience directs. There is never any question about that, except among a few conscientious objectors like Ramsay MacDonald, who, in the time of every honest man despises. It soon becomes apparent to everyone that the war has a supernatural sanction, is, in fact, a religious duty. The citizen feels no moral compunction about fighting, no religious objections. He is for his country, and he believes that God is too. So does the enemy. That settles the question without the aid of the Supreme Court or Congress. It won't be the Supreme Court or Congress or any other institution which will keep America or any other country out of the war. It will be the realization that the next war will put the tin hat on everyone.

SOMETIMES PEOPLE in this business grow discouraged and wonder if anyone is really paying any attention to what they read in the newspapers. If they grow sufficiently discouraged, the people in this business sometimes end it all by becoming statisticians. I have lately received convincing proof that journalism is still a stupendous force in the world. That is to say, every afternoon when it gets too dark to play any longer outside, a little girl from next door comes trudging over here, and after being divested of her giant gum boots, is allowed to curl herself up in my armchair, head down, feet up, of course. And in this position she insists that I read her the daily paper in this newspaper about Uncle Wiggly.

WHAT I HAVE suffered from Uncle Wiggly no tongue can tell. It has quite turned me against rabbits for the rest of my life. I could almost wish that somebody would turn the rabbit gentleman into a jugger head so that I might be spared the reading of his daily goings-on. However, it would never do to let the little girl from next door suspect any such thing and I read doggedly to the end. But it is when I forget to bring home a paper that I receive the real proof that journalism, after all, is a great thing in the life of the community. When I forget to bring home a paper there is such a wailing and gnashing of teeth, such a kicking and wriggling on my armchair, such scolding tears and bitter accusations.

ations that I would even welcome Uncle Wiggly in the flesh. No one can tell me again that the press does not fill a very real need in the life of this civilization.

TO-DAY WAS one of the days when I forgot the paper. As usual, I had to hunt an outrageous falsehood to explain it. It told her that they didn't make any paper to-day.

Why didn't they for? she demanded suspiciously.

"Well," I said, not knowing what else to say, for my mendacity had been exposed already by the ordinary work of the day, "they were sick to-day, so they couldn't make it."

"Why were they for?" she asked.

"Well," I said, getting more feeble with every word, "you see, they ate some soft-shelled crabs and they didn't agree with them for?" she insisted.

"Did Uncle Wiggly eat of soft-shelled crabs, too?"

"Oh, no," I said reassuringly. "Uncle Wiggly's all right. He'll be around to-morrow."

This seemed to satisfy her, and I am just mentioning the matter here so that the men who make this paper may know about it, so that they may stand behind my story if they should happen to run into the little girl next door. I mean, if they should happen to talk to her, I hope they will look as if they had been eating soft-shelled crabs. Some of them will, anyway.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
February 15, 1907

(From The Times Files)

Shipments of copper will immediately commence from the copper mines of Alaska Industrial Company at Sulzer, Prince of Wales Island, Alaska, to the Tye Smelter at Ladysmith.

A three-storey building 60x25 feet will be erected by A. Huggett & Co. on Langley Street immediately adjoining the Victoria Electric Railway Company.

The case of city policemen receiving an increase in salary was not considered at the City Council last evening. Their case will be specially considered by the Board of Police Commissioners, which consists of Mayor Morley and two others yet to be appointed. Nothing could be learned of the probable fate of the application, save that it will be considered on its merits.

The members of the force expect to be raised. "The others have received their share," he should have said. "We were lowered at the same time and have not received an increase since."

The steamers Spokane, of the Pacific Steamship Company, which ran on Dunbar Street, and the Victoria, after an investigation, been found to have sustained great damage. She will not be able to resume work for at least two months, and the estimated damage is $30,000.

To-morrow the Victoria rugby team travel to Nanaimo to play a return match against that city. Both teams will be fully represented, and the local City is reported to have a much stronger body of players than that which met with defeat at the hands of Victoria during December.

BOMB THROWN MISSES SCHOOL

Missile Explodes Twenty Feet From Doughboy Building at Glade, B.C.

Nelson, B.C., Feb. 15.—Police to-day were attempting to discover who hurled a bomb at the $18,000 brick Doughboy school at Glade Saturday evening, while Miss Helen Leismann, one of the teachers, was in her living quarters in the building. It was another outrage added to the terrorist campaign in the Doughboy areas in this district.

No damage was done by the bomb, which exploded twenty feet from the building, making a crater in the snow ten feet in diameter.

It was the second bombing within five days of a school building housing a teacher, a bomb having been exploded last Tuesday evening in the Champion Creek farm school, while the teacher, Mrs. Jeanie B. McRae, was in it.

The detonation of the bomb Saturday evening was heard across the Kootenay River at Thrums, from which point word was telephoned to the provincial police at Nelson.

NIGHT INVESTIGATION
Corporal C. A. Barber and Constable C. E. Davidson were rushed to Glade from Nelson, and spent the rest of the night investigating, returning to town Sunday morning.

Their investigation showed the person who threw the bomb had approached within ninety feet of the school and hurled the missile seventy feet, apparently misjudging the distance. When his tracks were followed back to the settlement of the community Doughboys, they became indistinguishable in the beaten main roadway of the settlement.

Gangster Murdered In Philadelphia

terior debts on a gold standard basis. The same situation exists in South Africa and some other countries.

Logically we cannot continue to draw out of active circulation all the gold and credit in the Dominion to satisfy Mad Hatter creditors in France or the U.S.A., who refuse to accept goods or services through prohibitive tariffs or other means. Goods and services can only be paid for ultimately by goods or services; gold is only the medium of exchange. Trade may be defined in many ways, but after all it is chiefly barter and bargaining. Formerly, if one traded a donkey engine for a lowboat, one got low to the mill. The man who sold the donkey engine used it to work on government roads, and the practical individual who obtained the tugboat cards, though they insist on gold chips? Constantly one is assailed as to the morality of nations which endeavor to exist by abandoning gold standards and pay exterior debts with depreciated currency. On the other hand, I completely fail to see anything moral in one or two nations corraling all the gold, and letting other people on this earth live on stinkweed or rot air.

Professors of what is termed political economy must assume that a depreciated or depreciating currency is an illusive mirage as far as the well-being of a nation is concerned. Certainly, if devalued terms, abandoned mines, closed sawmills, and state socialism or communism are preferable to pioneer virtues these pundits are in the right, but after all it seems to me an economically-minded Scotman, like Sir James Douglas, would have seriously considered sending such folk on a sailing cruise to the Aleutian Islands.

ECONOMY NEEDED

To the Editor:—Just now, when everyone is talking economy, I seem to me that "the powers that be" spend a lot of other people's money needlessly. I refer to Oak Bay. The school board and the council are supposed to work more harmoniously this year. Or at least that is what the new school trustees said before they were elected by acclamation.

It is necessary for the school board to have a separate office when the municipal hall is large enough for all public business. I haven't been in there for some time, but as I last remember it there is plenty of room for the desk of the board's secretary. The council chamber, upstairs, is not busy every night either. But, no, the school board must have its own office, with which must go much needless expenditure. The separate building could be built out, the heating and the lighting and many other things that would save the poor taxpayers a few hundred cents and the trustees and the councilors from worrying so much about finances.

OAK BAY TAXPAYER.

AN EXPLANATION

To the Editor:—Please publish the following:

To my friends and customers—You may have seen on the front page of The Times that I was in court for not paying my license. I would like to explain to the public that up to the present I have always paid 100 cents on the dollar.

I have had a garage in Victoria for over twenty years and last July received a bill for an oil station license, $30. I refused to pay this when I found that in the heart of the city they only paid $15 for an oil station license and, according to the Licensing By-law that was all they should pay—$10 for one person running it and $5 for each additional person serving—but the Oxford dictionary is brought in and says I must pay $30.

I have one pump at $30. There are as many as eight pumps in one station in the heart of the city, paying the same license of $30.

There would appear to be discrimination in licensing fees. Whether one operates a garage or gas station all should be taxed the same. There should be no favorites at the City Hall.

MORE COURTESY TO AERIAL VISITORS

To the Editor:—Once again we have to advertise to the world that Victoria lacks a place where a visitor to Victoria can land an airplane safely. Yesterday a small plane, piloted by Vancouver attempted to land on the so-called airport at Gordon Head with the result that it sank in the mud, breaking the propeller and damaging the undercarriage.

Last week The Times printed a news item to the effect that a large trimotored plane is coming here, quoting the item: "Islam, the shrine trimotored Stanavo powered plane, operated by the San Francisco Shrine Convention Inc., will arrive in Victoria within the next week, bearing Director General William H. Woodfield Jr., head of the 1932 Shrine Pilgrimage Committee on his first official visit to Glaze Temple in Victoria." If a small plane, weighing less than 1,000 pounds and landing at about thirty-five miles an hour goes through the surface of this field, what is likely to happen in an attempted landing by a giant plane weighing about three tons and having a landing speed in excess of fifty miles an hour. At the instigation of certain local people the government was coerced into condemning Landsowne Field, which field had proved itself capable of accommodating every type of plane, large or small, both winter and summer.

Now that these people have succeeded in depriving Victoria of a good field, I would like to suggest that they get busy and make some effort to provide another field as good.

FINANCIAL POLICY

To the Editor:—That some kind of painful will have to be concocted shortly to soothe our nerves as regards unemployment and lack of credit is evident to every druggist on Government Street. The fundamental ingredients of the mixture would appear to be the banks and the general financial policy of the federal government.

It is perfectly evident that there is a serious contraction of credit and currency throughout the province and the Dominion. The banks and the Ottawa government are mobilizing all their reserves and credit—which should be in active interior circulation in a well-meant endeavor to pay

THE FARMER'S NEEDS

To the Editor:—I have finally decided to make known to the public what I have been thinking for a good many years as to how to place the farmer on an equal standing with other industrialists that sell their product at a profit. That is what the farmer should do. He must sell at a profit in order to save himself, and to save the country as well. The farmer has no excuse, nor can he blame the merchants or the bankers for refusing him credit, as they know farmers are selling on a loss and will not be able to pay their debts.

I believe farmers should drop old ways of allowing the buyer to set prices on his products. Farmers should adopt a new system, figure the costs, add his profit, set his price and sell on a safe basis.

I have had long experience in mixed farming, especially in livestock raising, and I have had opportunity to observe conditions and see the weakness of the farming system. I have concluded there could be any way to abolish the habit that farmers have been following for generations past that of allowing the buyer to set the price on his farm products.

What has the farmer done this year? Because he had no fixed price on anything he raised and naturally depended upon the buyer to name the price. He was quite satisfied even though he knew he lost money. I will admit that once in a while the farmer got more than his product was worth, but that is what led him to think it was as soon as the war was over, everything dropped, even below cost. No, we can't even get an offer for our products.

HOW TO LOSE FAT A POUND A DAY ON A FULL STOMACH

YOU CAN REALLY EAT MORE THAN EVER AND LOSE POUNDS OF FAT

FAT JUST MELTED AWAY—AS MUCH AS 5 POUNDS IN A WEEK—NEVER FELT BETTER

Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person now rips off fat a pound a day—up to seven pounds every week!—a full stomach, with never a hunger pang. Thus it is foolish now to go to bed.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful of Jad Salts in a glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system, the waste matter, and excess toxins at most fat people have, and banishes stiffness and heat.

Then do about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat you fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc.

and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on fats, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—Jad Salts is urged purely as a poison-banishing agent, not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

BIG U.B.C. CUT CALLED UNFAIR

Serious Consequences to University Outlined By Student Spokesman

Opposition to Proposed 43 Per Cent Cut Voiced By Dean Quanton and Margaret Clay

The University of British Columbia would be reduced to the standard of a fifth or sixth rate institution if the grant cut proposed by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, were put into effect, it was claimed during arguments against the reduction advanced at a well-attended meeting in Memorial Hall, Saturday evening. The meeting called by the U.B.C. Students' Publicity Committee was addressed by students who have been conducting an active campaign against a lower grant, and by Dean Quanton and Miss Margaret Clay, city librarian. J. M. Campbell, Victoria school trustee and former principal of North Ward School, presided.

William Shillock, one of the students, quoted 1928-29 figures, which were the latest available, to show that without the reduction the grant per student for the University of B.C. was lower than in other provinces. He quoted as follows:

University of Toronto, partially endowed, $295; Western University at London, Ontario, partially endowed, $335; Alberta, $348; Saskatchewan, $350; and University of British Columbia, $247.

The proposed cut of 43 per cent over last year's grant (making a 57 per cent for the last two years) would reduce it to $156 per student, said Mr. Shillock.

It would make an actual money cut over two years of $332,700. The total cut in the three universities of Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan was $337,000 for the same period.

FIFTH RATE

President Killick of the University of British Columbia was asked by the students, the U.B.C. spokesman said, what would happen if the proposed cut went through. He replied: "It would reduce U.B.C. to a fifth or sixth rate institution."

The same question was put to John Riddington, the noted librarian who tends the university's celebrated library. He said: "The proposed cut would mean there would not be a dollar for the library."

The students had shown their willingness to cooperate with the government in what was undoubtedly a period of financial stress, Mr. Shillock continued. They had accepted a 27 per cent cut last year which had impaired the efficiency of the university. They had accepted a 25 per cent increase in tuition fees.

The university had a brilliant record. A recent merit chart compiled by Stanford University had placed U.B.C. fifth among the universities of the North American continent. A 3.33 degree was taken on par in the great universities of England, the United States and eastern Canada, and its standing was chiefly due to the quality of its honors courses, which would be done away with if the proposed cut were made.

The present staff had taken seventeen years to collect. It would take at least a generation to reassemble a staff of an equal calibre.

The present students, over 2,000 in number, had enrolled in all good faith, hoping to be able to graduate with a degree which they knew would be recognized everywhere. The standard of the university would be so lowered if the proposed cut went through, as to make the degree hardly worth the paper it was printed on.

In fact, it was a question, said Mr. Shillock, whether the students would attend. At present $1,800,000 yearly was spent in tuition fees. Presuming that half the students went elsewhere in search of a recognized college education, it would mean that $900,000 would be spent outside the province just because the government hoped to save about $200,000.

REMAIN IN CANADA

Opponents of the University of British Columbia argued that most of the graduates left the country and way, continued the spokesman. On the contrary 77 per cent of all graduates to date were still in B.C. and 82 per cent were in Canada.

What about the people who had been paying taxes on the U.B.C. for years in the hope that some day their own children would benefit from the university? What about the loss of prestige to the province through the failure of its university? What about the U.B.C. bonds and the ensuing unemployment?

"Is not a 57 per cent cut excessive?" Mr. Shillock asked. "What business enterprise could survive if 57 per cent of its revenue were suddenly taken away? If this cut goes through, it would seem the last desperate act of a bankrupt province."

The students, said Mr. Shillock, were appealing to the people of British Columbia in a petition they were circulating. He wished to deny two rumors, one that the Liberals were behind the students, the other that the professors themselves were giving support. Neither body was in any way connected with the movement.

DEAN QUANTON

"I do hope the government will be prevailed upon to reconsider its stringent decision," said Dean Quanton. He, as the other speakers and the chairman, were not entering the discussion, they said, in a spirit of political partisanship, but in the interests of the higher education of this province.

"I believe I am speaking for the taxpayers of British Columbia when I say that the general, essential character of the university must stay."

The need for economy in the present distress must be accepted by the students, but economy was one thing, starvation another, continued the dean.

Dean Quanton recalled the movie "Alf's Button." Alf's objection to Eustace, he said, was that Eustace always overdid things. When Alf and Eustace were standing outside the bedroom and the doctor came out, he said to Eustace, "It's twins." Alf remarked "Eustace always did overdo things."

Like Eustace, the government was overdoing things, the dean observed.

"Did the government meet the board of governors of the university, put the financial problem squarely before them and ask advice on the best way to handle it? The dean did not know whether they did or not, but if they

the Trans-Canada Telephone System

The Trans-Canada Telephone System is the final development of 15 years' work by telephone leaders in the interests of efficiency and national unity. Almost insuperable barriers have been overcome by the seven companies in the system. Trans-Canada expended the route for months. A 2,611 mile trail through 3,000 miles of wilderness and through the heart of the continent had to be planned. The British Columbia route meant blazing a 300 mile trail through forests, over untamed and across lakes and rivers. Across magnificent distances, traversing rough and unfavourable rain, the System's network grew in lengthened. Every mile was a problem. Ground had to be cleared, every distance measured, thousands of maintenance tests conducted. At last 53 miles of copper wire stood ready flash speech from coast to coast, able of carrying more conversation at one time than had ever been needed before.

With this all-Canadian, coast-to-coast network, the Trans-Canada Telephone System carries not only the present, but the sure needs of the Dominion. The System is a permanent asset to Canada, its service dedicated to the service of the country and the interests of its citizens.

Heart Hungry

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN
AUTHOR OF "GASH ROMANCE" © 1930 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

"Barney! How did you get here?" He was grinning at her from beneath the rakish brim of his straw hat.

"Feet, my child. Feet. And a little good luck, too! I got off early."

They smiled at each other, neither speaking. Then Shields asked:

"Well, whither from here? You're going to have dinner with me, of course, but we have a couple of hours before that."

"I came in-town to buy some tennis shoes."

"Oh, was that the reason? I thought possibly you came to see me!"

"I mean—that was what I told Mrs. Parsons."

They laughed like school children sharing a joke. Celia picked up the address of the store Lisa had recommended. Barney immediately went into deep thought plotting a route to reach it.

"It's not far," he told her. "Would it be beneath your dignity to walk, madamelle?"

Celia said she would much rather walk than ride. She could never quite get enough of the enticing streets of the metropolis. With Barney beside her she would feel secure in the maze of scurrying pedestrians and noisy vehicles.

They bought the shoes. It was after 5 when they left the shop.

"Tell you what we'll do," Barney said. "Take a bus down the avenue. It'll be cool on top. There's an Italian place down on Eleventh Street I think you'll like."

The plan was agreeable to Celia. "But listen, Barney," she said. "You haven't told me anything about yourself or what you're doing here or anything yet! I want to hear about it."

"Come on, here's the bus! Tell you after we get upstairs."

But on the ride down Fifth Avenue there was too much to be pointed out to Celia's eager eyes. Too impressive a panorama, to allow much conversation. Celia, in a glimpse of the famous thoroughfare from the windows of sedate limousines. Now she saw it as a glamorous, colorful procession between majestic buildings.

When they were finally settled at a table for two in the basement dining-room and the girl had exclaimed over the blazing oven where roasting chickens turned on spits and over the foreign atmosphere of the place, Barney Shields leaned forward. He clasped his hands together.

"This is what I've been looking forward to for a long time," he said. "You look swell, Celia."

"I guess it's the new clothes."

"Are they new? Like the ones you wore? You'd look swell to me no matter what you wore."

Celia smiled. "You're looking pretty well yourself, Mr. Shields. Now tell me about the job. When did you get here? Have you seen mother lately?"

Barney put up one hand.

"Now wait a minute. Wait a minute! One at a time. No, I haven't seen your mother very recently. You see it was a month ago I left Baltimore."

"A month ago? Barney Shields, do you mean you've been here a whole month and didn't try to see me?"

"But Celia, you don't understand. Wait—I'd better begin at the beginning. Do you remember six weeks ago about the time I was recruited at Washington? Spectacular stuff! I made a bunch of pictures and had good luck with 'em. Shot at unusual angles. You know that's the kind of thing I like. They seemed pretty fair, so after we'd used 'em in the Post I shipped a bunch of prints to Apex Pictures."

"Biggest piece of luck you ever heard of! Wagner—he's the man who runs Apex—is nutty about air stuff. He bought the bunch and wired there was a vacancy on the staff. Guess what your little friend Barney said to that? They were decent about letting me off on the paper. I packed my other suit and tooth brush and here I am!"

"But a whole month!"

Shields's face had grown serious.

"I had to be sure I was going to make the grade before I tried to see you," he said. "I'm getting twice the salary I did, but of course it wouldn't be considered anything in your crowd."

"That's why I waited, and why I didn't write. It looks like this job is going to be a real opportunity. Wagner seems to like me—anyhow, he's treating me O.K. You see how it was, don't you, Celia?"

"I guess so."

Barney hesitated. Then he leaned nearer, his clear, gray eyes troubled.

"You still care, don't you?" he asked slowly. "There isn't anybody else?"

at the races the rest of this week, I guess. The young man's indifference was a pose obvious even to Celia.

"You might telephone."

"Thanks, I'll try to."

She said goodby, thanked him for the dinner and entered the car. By the time she had found a seat and looked out of the window Shields had vanished. Celia rode to her apartment feeling that she had done the cruellest act of her life. It hurt her to remember Barney's face with his mouth such a straight, firm line and the smile gone from his eyes. Barney wasn't like that.

She got off the train, signaled a cab and arrived at Larchwood before eight o'clock. Mrs. Parsons was still absent.

Celia went upstairs to her room, changed her dress for one of rose net made with the quaint puff sleeves and full skirt that gave her an old-fashioned charm. She put on her mother's locket because it made Margaret Rogers seem nearer to her. After that she went down to wait for Evelyn.

She moved the radio dials until the syncopated melody of a night club orchestra floated into the room. That was better! Life—action—thrill! laughter! That was what she needed. Celia wished Tod Jordan would come and take her somewhere. She wanted to dance, to hear Jordan make love to her and forget that deep down in her heart something was hurting. It couldn't be that she loved Barney, of course. Barney had never affected her with that hypnotic spell she felt when Jordan took her in his arms. She had been a child without the faintest notion of what love meant when she promised to wait for Barney Shields to make his fortune.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Modern housewives are always on the lookout for "something different" for salads and salad combinations. In dressings, too, are important factors in salad making and receive their share of attention.

An unusual dressing is made with tomato pulp. It is very cheap and very good and will keep for weeks if stored in a jar in the ice-box. While it is good with all kinds of salads, it is particularly good with sweet potato and pineapple salad.

TOMATO SALAD DRESSING
Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 teaspoons mild paprika, 1 cup sifted tomato pulp, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 1 egg.

Mix and sift flour, salt, sugar, mustard and paprika. Melt butter in a smooth sauce pan and stir in dry ingredients. Cook and stir until bubbling. Stir in tomato pulp. Rub canned tomatoes through a fine colander to remove the seeds, but be sure to force through all the pulp to me as thick as possible. Cook and stir until mixture boils. Add vinegar and bring again to boiling point. Remove from fire and stir in egg slightly beaten.

SWEET POTATO AND PINEAPPLE SALAD
One and one-fourth cups diced sweet potatoes, 1-1/2 cups diced peeled pineapple, 2 tablespoons minced salted almonds, 1/2 cup minced celery, 1/4 cup shredded green pepper.

The sweet potatoes are cooked and chilled before dicing. Grate nuts or put through nut grinder. Combine all the ingredients with tomato dressing and serve on shredded leaf lettuce on one and one-fourth cups diced chicken. This makes an excellent hearty salad for a bridge luncheon.

Hot and cold salads are in their prime at this time of year. They are remarkably thin skinned and well flavored and add an appetizing bit of color to a meal.

TOMATO, GRAPEFRUIT AND STUFFED CELERY SALAD
One large grapefruit, 2 medium sized tomatoes, 2 tablespoons cream cheese, 2 tablespoons stuffed olives, half cup of celery.

Peel grapefruit and separate pulp into sections, discarding all seeds and thin connecting tissues. Cut Mix cheese and finely chopped stuffed olives and fill celery stalks with mixture. Cut in inch lengths. Peel and slice tomatoes. Arrange prepared fruit and vegetables on hearts of head lettuce and serve with French dressing.

If the grapefruit is carefully prepared the sections can be kept whole. This, of course, makes a more attractive salad.

Neither had done more than taste the soup. It was removed and followed by a huge mound of spaghetti with sauce and bowl of cheese.

"You're supposed to do it this way," Shields explained, wrapping the spaghetti about his fork. This diversion interrupted the conversation. Presently the young man asked:

"You care a lot for this fellow Jordan, do you?" His voice was low, almost husky.

"Yes, Barney," she said.

There was no more talk on the subject. Celia asked about her mother, but Barney had little news to give. He had seen Mrs. Rogers a couple of times after the girl's departure. He had called to say goodbye before coming to New York, but there had been no answer to his knock. When Celia inquired about her mother's health he answered that Mrs. Rogers looked "about the same as usual."

It was not altogether satisfactory.

"I wish I could see her," the girl said. "You know how she is. If anything was the matter she'd never let anyone know."

Shields tried to be comforting. He inquired about the places Celia went and how she spent her time.

"Ritz, all right!" he concluded. "Well, you won't have much time to waste on a guy like me."

"Don't say that, Barney. I want to see you often."

"Oh, it's probably just as well if you don't. I expect you're pretty busy with this fellow Jordan taking you to parties and teas. Anyhow, I'll take me a while to—well, sort of work things out."

He had desert and black coffee, and they had finished Shields took the girl in a cab to the station.

It was early, but she was anxious to reach Larchwood before there was any possibility that Mrs. Parsons would be there.

"When am I going to see you again?" she asked as they stood together on the train platform.

"Hard to tell. We have rather irregular schedules, you know. I'll be out

Uncle Wiggily's Jolly Music

(Copyright, 1932, by Howard R. Garis)

asked his wife. "If you sing with a sore throat you may make it worse."

"That's so, I did have a sore throat," Uncle Wiggily answered. "But it's better now. Night comes and I shall sing many songs and amuse the company."

"Oh, dear!" sighed Mrs. Longears when Uncle Wiggily had hopped out to find an adventure. "What are we going to do? I love Wiggily and all that, but if he sings—"

"It will be terrible," said Nurse Jane. "There is no use not telling the truth—it will be just too bad. But I don't want to tell him so."

"Have you anything special to do this evening?" asked Mrs. Longears of her rabbit husband one morning.

"Nothing very special," answered Uncle Wiggily, who was getting ready to hop out of his hollow stump bungalow to go adventuring. "Did you want to go to the talking pictures?"

"Thank you," answered the rabbit lady. "I shall be glad to go to the movies with you some other night. Wiggily, to-night I am to have a few friends in to talk and play games, and I thought perhaps you would stay in and help me amuse them."

"Why, certainly," said Uncle Wiggily, always ready to help. "Would you like me to sing?"

Mrs. Longears quickly looked at Nurse Jane Fussy Wuzzy but said nothing. Nurse Jane looked at Mrs. Longears, but the muskrat lady housekeeper did not say anything either.

The three people were sitting on a sofa, but the rabbit gentleman did not know this. He thought he was a fine singer and no one told him anything different, as they did not want to hurt his feelings. So when he offered to sing for his wife's party neither she nor Nurse Jane wanted to say he had better not.

"Yes, I shall sing to amuse your company," Uncle Wiggily said. "I don't mind. It will be a treat for them."

"Well, Wiggily, I know you mean to be kind," said his wife with another look at Nurse Jane. "But with your throat, do you think it wise to try to sing?"

"What's the matter with my throat?" asked the rabbit gentleman. "I feel fine and my voice is just as good as ever."

"Didn't you say it was sore?"

"I know what we can do," said Mrs. Longears, suddenly.

"What?" asked Nurse Jane, who was trying some feathers on the end of her tail so she could dust the bungalow as it would be neat and tidy when company came. "What can we do?"

"We can give each one of the animal lady and gentleman guests some pieces of cotton from the milkweed plant," said Mrs. Longears.

"What for?" asked Nurse Jane.

"What good will cotton do?"

"They can stuff the cotton in their ears," said the rabbit lady with a smile.

"Then they won't hear Wiggily sing."

"That's a fine idea!" spoke Nurse Jane. "We have some old, dried pods of the milkweed plant down cellar. I'll get them up and when Mr. Longears starts to sing I'll pass the cotton around."

"That will be better than hurting Wiggily's feelings by telling him he can't sing," said his wife. "I guess everything will be all right."

While his wife and Nurse Jane were getting ready for company, Uncle Wiggily hopped over the fields and through the woods. He was sort of humming to himself, for he hummed better than he sang, which was not saying much. Reaching a silent, quiet place in the woods, Mrs. Longears said:

"This will be a good place for me to practice my jolly singing music. I'll try some of the songs I am going to sing to-night." He opened his mouth and loudly shouted in what he thought was singing, the words of an old song.

"Oh, hot! Oh, hot!" sang the bunny. "I am a rabbit bold! I fear no Bob Cat, Fox or Wolf I am a rabbit bold!"

All of a sudden a voice behind a tree cried:

"Stop! Stop! Oh, for goodness sake stop! What are you doing?"

"I am making jolly music—getting ready for my wife's party to-night," said Uncle Wiggily. "I am just making music."

Which

Finds Only
Intelligent
Love
Worth While

Instead of Demanding Temperature and Adhesiveness in Love, Which, After All, Are Merely the Virtues of a Hot Mustard Plaster, Why Don't We Ask for Intelligent Love, Which Alone Insures a Happy Marriage?

IN THEIR courting days young people ask each other: "Do you love me madly, passionately, romantically? Do you love me with a love that will never die? Do you love me with all your heart and soul? It never occurs to them to ask: Do you love me intelligently? Do you love me with your mind? Do you love me with your common sense?

Yet intelligent love is the only love that brings any peace and happiness with it. It is the only love that is a blessing and not a curse to its recipient. And it is the only love that lasts. Sensible love is what we should pray the gods to send us, instead of wasting our petitions in demanding temperature or adhesiveness in love, which, after all, are merely the virtues of a hot mustard plaster.

To begin with, the man and woman who love intelligently have used some discretion in what they set their affections upon. They are not enamored of a beautiful face or an athletic figure that have nothing behind them any more than a pretty picture of which they will be sure to weary in time. Nor are they swept off their feet by the thin veneer of the surface attraction of an agreeable personality which is apt to crack in the arid atmosphere of domesticity. Nor do they fall in love on the general principle enunciated by the old Florida settler who used to sing: "We must love somebody and it might as well be you."

On the contrary, those who love intelligently use their brains as well as their hearts. They know why they love and what qualities in a man or woman appeal to them. They love not only youth and beauty in women and men, but the things that stay when youth and beauty have fled. The intelligence, the wit, the charm, the sweetness, the sympathy and understanding that make men and women eternally interesting to each other and that bind them together in a tie they never wish to break are the things that make them pick out a certain man or woman for a mate.

It is lack of intelligence in love that precipitates the domestic tragedies, the divorces and the murders, that makes marriage one of the most dangerous enterprises upon which one can embark. Every day we read in the newspapers about husbands and wives slaying each other in a jealous frenzy, and all of us know dozens of married couples who make each other's lives a burden by their green-eyed suspicions. We all know men who make scenes if their wives are decently polite to any other man, and we know men who would not dare to take an old woman friend out to lunch or to hire a female stenographer who was not forty years old and cross-eyed and red-headed.

And we know homes that should be happy that are wrecked by the in-law trouble. Wives who are jealous of their husbands' mothers. Mothers who are jealous of their sons' wives. Husbands who resent their wives' mothers' influence over their daughters. Mothers who are determined to be first still to their daughters.

And all the heart-burnings and the jealousy and the misery is because most people love stupidly. They love senselessly. That is why they demand the impossible of each other. That is why they expect to be all-in-all to each other. That is why the wife expects to take the place to her husband of his mother and father and sisters and brothers and all of his old friends and acquaintances and to furnish his every interest and amusement in life. The husband expects the same thing of his wife, and it simply can't be done. We all have a thousand needs that it takes a thousand different people with different characteristics to supply.

The man and woman who love intelligently know this. They know that there are many varieties of affection and that one does not interfere with the other. They know that the love we give our parents and our families and that which we give our mates are no more the same kind of affection than ice cream is roast beef. They know that a man can admire a pretty girl and still think his homely Maria the greatest woman in the world. They know that a woman can enjoy an evening spent with an irresponsible playboy and then come home and get down on her knees and thank God for her plodding old husband.

People who love intelligently do not make the mistake of thinking that love is some mysteriously indestructible thing that nothing they can do will hurt and that once a man or a woman care for you they are bound to go on adoring you to the end of the chapter because they can't help themselves. Far from it.

Those who love wisely know that if you keep love alive you have to cherish it as you would a fragile flower. They know that if you neglect it and if you trample over it, it will inevitably die. They know that it can be choked to death for lack of liberty. That it can be crushed by tyranny. That it can perish for lack of warmth. That it can be worn out by nagging and that it just withers and gives up the ghost under perpetual fault-finding.

Perhaps in all the world there is nothing stranger than these two things: That husbands and wives who really love each other treat each other worse than they do their deadliest enemy and that husbands and wives who would die for each other make their lives together so unhappy that either one would be glad to die to get out of it. All because they do not love intelligently.

Wonders in Common Things

1.—SAND OF THE SEA

We live in a magic world, and there is wonder in the most common thing. At the shore of lake or ocean you may observe great stretches of sand. What is there in sand about which we may wonder? Let us see.

Every grain of sand has a story, and in a rough way we know the history of all sand.

Sandy Waste in British West Africa

By study of the rocks, and by study of modern volcanoes, men of science have been able to trace things far back in time. We know that the volcanoes give the world rocks of several kinds.

One rock which comes from the lava of volcanoes is known as "obsidian." It is a kind of dark glass—brown or reddish, often deep black.

Another rock made by volcanoes is so light that it will float on water.

One of Nature's very hard rocks is granite, and it is the rock to which we may trace most of the sand in the sea. Granite is still another rock forked out of lava.

Now we may put together part of the story of sand. Thousands and thousands of years ago, volcanoes were active, pouring forth great rivers of lava! The lava became hard. Part turned into granite. As the ages passed, Nature worked on the granite. Changes from hot to cold and from cold to hot made the rock crack. Rains fell. Tiny streams ran down mountain sides. The water carried bits of granite into valleys and rivers carried these bits of rock—or "sand"—toward the sea.

Some day I shall tell you about the great load of sand and mud which a single river—the Mississippi—carries to the Gulf of Mexico every day of the year. With hundreds of rivers at work, each taking sand and mud to the sea, the changes are great. The land is being carried into the sea!

Nature is working swiftly in one sense, but in another sense her work is slow. At the present rate it would take millions of years before North America could be worn away to sea level. When the mountains become less high, the rate of change will be more slow than it is now.

HEALTH PLAN IS ANNOUNCED

Compulsory Contributory System Recommended to Government By Commission

Hospital and Medical Service
For 156,280 Persons Advised; Other Plans Submitted

Health insurance, a compulsory contributory basis for persons earning less than $2,400 annually, with the cost shared by the province and the employers, can save the provincial government and the municipalities upwards of $500,000 annually, according to the report of the commission on health insurance.

When releasing the commission's report Mr. Davis said: "Almost every important country in Europe has now embraced the principle of compulsory sickness insurance. In British Columbia the system this will be the first area of the North American continent to show the way towards scientific health practice."

The commission has drawn up a plan which it believes will solve the question of the care of the sick, without added expense to the state or employers of labor, and with relatively small cost to the insured, and also solve the problem of hospital finances.

Several alternative plans are suggested, based on either an employee-pay-all basis, or upon a division of cost five-ninths by the insured, and two-ninths each by the government and employers.

The insurance would be compulsory to those earning up to $2,400 a year, and optional to those earning more.

Medical services, drugs and appliances would be free, and the insured, within reasonable latitude, could choose his own doctor.

The plans submitted are covered by ten specific recommendations, as follows:

1. Compulsory health insurance for all employed persons in receipt of a net annual income up to $2,400, and that voluntary admission to the scheme be permitted other persons who may wish to enter, subject to limits defined.

2. Provision of medical services, including drugs and appliances and hospitalization, to be provided by the state, or by a state-employer-aid basis, to apply to 156,280 persons.

3. Consideration of the extension of these benefits to dependents of the insured, and inclusion of a maternity cash benefit of $25, either wholly contributory, or else with state-employer aid, to apply to 37,319 persons.

4. Consideration of the extension to include further cash benefits, such as compensation for lost earnings from $1 to $1.50 daily, for costs, either wholly contributed, or else with state-employer aid.

5. The levy of a flat rate, rather than on an income basis, to operate the scheme at all rates of earnings.

6. Administration of the scheme through a central board, permanent, supplemented by regional committees representing the insured, employers, the medical profession and community welfare organizations, where the regional committees would advise the central board on medical attendance on a capitation or attendance fee basis.

7. The early inclusion of a dental benefit to service rendered under the plan.

8. "Every reasonable latitude in accordance to the insured a free choice of doctor."

9. Transfer of amounts now paid to the Workmen's Compensation Medical Fund to the State Health Board.

10. A six months' trial of benefits on the first year of operation, or until cash advances from the treasury.

THREE PLANS SHOWN

Costs are given for (a) the basic plan of medical services, supplies and hospitalization; and for (b) the suggested possible extension of this scheme to dependents; and further (c) with additional cash benefits for incapacitation, etc. The commission makes the following findings in that regard:

(a) The maximum contribution for this plan, with the employee bearing the whole cost, is fixed at $1.14 per month for the total services. With participation by state and employer on a basis of two-ninths of the total cost each, the beneficiary's contribution would be 60 cents per month. With a maternity benefit of $25, the cost to the insured would be $1.23 per month bearing the whole cost, or 68 cents on a two-ninths state-employer contribution, where the insured bears five-ninths of the total cost.

(b) The extension of the plan to dependents of the insured, and inclusion of a maternity cash benefit of $25, places the insured person's contribution monthly at $2.73 bearing the whole cost, or $1.51 per month on the two-ninths participation each by state and employer.

(c) Extension involving additional benefits, including a cash benefit of from $1 to $1.50 a day during incapacity, are featured in further plans with the costs varying from $2.28 to $3.53 per month when the whole cost is borne by the employee; and from $1.57 to $1.93 when the cost is shared as aforesaid, the amount of the contribution varying in proportion to extension of the benefits.

"In all the plans submitted, excepting the most expensive, the state contribution is considerably less than the government and municipalities now contribute annually to hospitals," the commission states.

PUBLIC APPROVAL

The commission reports "an overwhelming desire on the part of the general public for the introduction of state health insurance and maternity benefits, and an undeniable and acute necessity for the inauguration of such a scheme." There was no direct opposition from any resident in the province, and 99 out of all witnesses heard favored the scheme, it is stated.

While no such system is at present in force on the continent, the following countries are reported to have compulsory sickness insurance: Austria, Bulgaria, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Hungary, Irish Free State, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Roumania, Russia, Yugoslavia and Switzerland. Compulsory health insurance, states the report, was introduced in Britain in 1911.

The investigation was decided on by the Legislature two years ago, and the

Under The Clock

Everyone Is Busy on Estimates But It Is Going To Be a Long Job; Ducks and Chickens to Battle Over Earwigs, Says Rumor; Mayor Leeming Gets a New Roof Over His Head.

Although civic boards last week attacked the estimates with vim and vigor as if they intended to polish off the whole business in a few days, it has become apparent that future progress, especially in the City Council, will be slow and Mayor Leeming's prediction that the rate will not be set until May is fairly certain of fulfillment.

The first few months of the year often prove very boring to those whose business it is to follow the doings of the city council. Everything comes tied up, either directly or indirectly with estimates. When some one wants a road fixed, the matter goes to the estimates committee. If the mayor wants a new chair, it goes to the estimates committee.

When the council decided to delay action on the salary question it placed one more obstruction in the path of a speedy decision on the mill rate and since then it has become apparent that the school board estimates, which by statute must be submitted to the senior body before the middle of February, will be sent back for further revision by the trustees. Probably the police estimates will get the same treatment when they are turned in, although this body has not dealt with its budget yet.

The item in the civic estimates which provided for more interest than any of the huge expenditure on ducks, chickens, police or fire protection was a comparatively insignificant sum of $2,000 which was labeled, among the parks appropriation, as "earwigs." This item evoked the most humorous moment of the discussion, outside of Alderman Williams' plea for a mate for three Kermode, and developed a serious debate on the value of ducks versus chickens in the extermination of the pests.

Parks Superintendent Warren must have had some advance information on the movements of the Victoria earwig army, because he applied for an appropriation much greater than that of last year. Earwig scouts have probably reported good hunting in the city and plan to stage a concentrated invasion some time during the summer.

But the invasion will be over the dead bodies of Alderman Williams' ducks. Ducks, says Alderman Williams, are the sworn enemies of earwigs. They gobble them up fast and grow fat on them. In fact, the ducks are so numerous that every one keeps a duck in his back yard, Victoria would have no earwigs.

"No, no," replied Alderman Worthington, "bantam chicks do the job much better. They are more scientific and cost less. With long years of practice they have acquired the knack of nipping the earwigs behind the backs of their ears with amazing dexterity."

This has given rise to grave fears that the council will be forced to stage an earwig-eating contest in the council chamber. Alderman Williams, it is rumored, will hold his ducks on one side and Alderman Worthington his bantam chicks on the other. In the middle will be placed 100 earwigs, specially selected for the occasion and trained in all the arts of evasion.

At a given signal from Mayor Leeming the ducks and chicks will be loosed, and the earwig-eating contest will be on. The ducks and chicks will be loosed, and the earwig-eating contest will be on. The ducks and chicks will be loosed, and the earwig-eating contest will be on.

CAPITOL SHOWS "UNION DEPOT"

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. Has Leading Role in Picture Opening To-day

Joan Blondell Has Leading Female Role and Heads Cast of Ninety Players

The public clamor for something new in motion pictures is abundantly gratified at the Capitol Theatre to-day with "Union Depot," the first National and Vitaphone production, starring Douglas Fairbanks Jr. with Joan Blondell as his leading lady.

The breath-taking action of this romantic comedy-thriller takes place in and about the confines of a vast railroad station, whose ever-changing throngs creates atmosphere rich in drama and human interest. Against this picturesque background the vivid personalities of the star and leading lady are placed with brilliant effectiveness.

"Union Depot" is a fast-moving modern story of pictures is a kind of that might happen to anybody any day in any big station. The picture is a kaleidoscope in its revealing glimpses of actors in the passing show of all humanity. People of all sorts and conditions, by its magic, become splendidly living and understandable.

Over ninety players take part in "Union Depot," among whom may be mentioned Guy Kibbee, Alan Hale, George Rosner, David Landau, Mary Dunn, Rita Flynn, Polly Walters, Ruth Hall, Mae Madison, Lillian Bond, George MacFarlane, Earle Foxe, Louis King, Frank McHugh, Spencer Charters, Ben Taggart and Robert Homans. Many well-known screen favorites not mentioned in the cast do unforgettable characterizations of people in the crowds. Alfred E. Green, the diversity of whose genius has been demonstrated by such widely different pictures as "Derseli" and "Smart Money," has achieved marvelous unity in his direction of "Union Depot."

Wallace Beery Stars In Dominion Picture
The hero of "The Big House" plays the father of "Skeppy" in a combination that is really an event of the screen season. Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper appear as two stars in a single picture in "The Champ."

Primarily it is a mighty drama of the love of a father and his son. There is a gripping element of human interest, surrounding this is comedy, satire and the thrills of a Mexican border town, with its gambling, racing and prize fighting. Much of it was actually filmed in Mexico.

OLIVE BORDEN AT PLAYHOUSE
Olive Borden is featured in Radio Pictures' all-talking, all-musical production, "Half Marriage," now playing at the Playhouse Theatre.

Miss Borden long has been hailed as one of the screen's best-dressed stars, and RKO Studio designers have helped her to live up to that reputation in this, her first Radio Pictures talker.

What might be termed an "around-the-clock" fashion parade is displayed by Miss Borden. There are smart frocks worn at a Greenwich Village studio party; street raiment for the secret marriage; and finally, garments of sports wear, at her country home, and smart evening gowns, for a country club ball.

Miss Borden is supported in "Half Marriage" by Morgan Farley, Sally Blane, Anderson Lawler, Richard Tucker, Hedda Hopper, Ken Murray, Ann Greenway and others.

FINE CAST IN COLUMBIA FILM

A new reason why George O'Brien is a most popular young man, and why Zane Grey enjoys the fame that is his, is evident on the screen at the Columbia Theatre, where Fox Films' thrilling "Riders of the Purple Sage" opened yesterday.

Here is a real family picture, one beautifully made, elaborately presented, and tastefully assembled. George O'Brien, Marguerite Churchill, Noah Beery, James Todd, Yvonne Pelletier and all others in the large cast are splendid in their parts and the direction of Hamilton MacFadden is close to perfection.

OUTDOOR ACTOR STAR AT ROMANO

Fred Kohler didn't have to step very much out of character to play the role of the Canadian woodsman in "The Right of Way," now showing at the Romano Theatre. Kohler is a great lover of the out-of-doors, and spends all of his time between pictures, hunting and fishing in the California mountains. He recently completed the role of a western character in "Under Western Skies," which took him into the High Sierras on location.

Noah Beery Starring In Story at Empire

Noah Beery, who has portrayed so many villainous roles, does splendid work in the latest Warner Bros. vitaphone picture, "Big Boy," starring Al Jolson, now playing at the Empire Theatre.

In the picture there is a flashback depicting a story that took place in 1870. Noah Beery plays the villain who runs off with the beautiful girl who is about to become the bride of another. The episode is really a take-off on the stories of years ago with the lovely heroine and the horrid bad man who rides around with a whip in his hand, shouting "Tm Bully Bagby, the fire eater, the tornado of New Orleans."

BIRTH CONTROL NEEDS WORLD

China and India Show Evils of Over-population, A. D. Sanders Says

England, Ireland and Italy Face Grave Menace, Gyro Club Told

Dangers of over-population, as illustrated in India and China, were vividly pointed out by A. D. Sanders, before the Gyro Club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day. During his talk he sounded a note of warning regarding the condition of England, Ireland and Italy, three of the European countries which faced serious unemployment problems, and pointed out that the model of civilization where birth control had almost entirely abolished this evil.

The law of population is this—any animal, if it can get all the food it wants and is not preyed upon, will soon over-run the world. It is the lack of food which keeps the balance of population," said Mr. Sanders.

Over-population in China caused the death through starvation of 2,000,000 persons in a good year and 10,000,000 in bad years. The Red Cross Association had decided to close welfare work there since its work was offset by the increase in population. When irrigation and improvement work was done in China and India, where conditions were virtually the same, it served solely to increase the population for greater misery in famine years, the speaker remarked.

The trouble in India was not so much one of self-government, but one of over-population.

In the Nile Valley fertility of the land had resulted in the propagation of millions who, through over-population, degenerated to the status of serfs. Turning to Japan, Mr. Sanders noted that country had an early culture and stationary population, brought about by some system of birth control. But recently, with the adoption of modern civilization, Japan had increased tremendously and was now over-populated.

EUROPE FACES DANGER

England, Italy and Ireland were three of the European countries which were facing the dangers of over-population.

Emigration formerly had staved off this menace to a certain extent, but with the United States and South America shutting her doors to immigrants, the danger was increasing.

The Great War he attributed to a lack of food in Europe. He traced the suppression of population in Britain in the "golden age" following the Tudors. In England the young workers could secure rooms, marry and raise families recklessly. This was not particularly noticeable in the early days when industry absorbed new blood. But as industry was growing, the danger was increasing.

Members of the students' publicity committee of the University of British Columbia appeared before the Gyro Club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day and outlined their argument against the proposed cut in the government's grant to the university. The three students were Win Shilcock, D. A. McDonald and Jordan Guy.

The students pointed to Sweden as a cut, he said, but considered reduction of the grant to $250,000 was far too much.

SHOOTINGS MARRIED IRISH VOTING

Candidate and Detective Killed; Another Candidate Fired at in Auto

Dublin, Irish Free State, Feb. 15.—Violence marred the election campaign for a second time in as many days to-day when an attempt was made to kill James Ennis, a government candidate in the Saggol district of County Dublin.

Ennis was fired on twice this morning and the hood of his automobile was struck by bullets although he was not struck.

Police immediately began a search of the district.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Feb. 15.—Voting in the Leitrim County constituency was postponed to-day, following the murder of a government candidate.

A wave of excitement swept over the district of the voting in the seven Leitrim seats may make the result uncertain, for it is generally agreed the result would be close in any case.

The Irish Free State general election is to be held to-morrow and postponed to-day following the murder of a government candidate.

A toast to the fathers was proposed by Frank Stevens. Harvey Boyle resigned as president of the Young Women's Guild during the evening was voiced by Walter Matthews. Rev. Bruce Grey added tribute to the leaders of the different groups for their work.

During the evening prizes for the best decorated table were presented. The "Whirlwinds" were successful in winning the prize for the Trail Race, which was presented by A. A. Campbell, while the "Falcons" won the Tuxis group award, presented by Fred M. McGregor. The "Falcons" also won the prize for having the largest class attendance at the banquet; this was presented by S. J. Drake.

Novelty stunts were staged during the evening by the "Falcons" group and the "Whirlwinds" class. George Gordon led community singing, and a vocal solo was given by W. C. Pye. Herbert Warren presided over the gathering.

Valera has predicted he will win perhaps seventy-seven or eighty seats in the election. He has a large enough majority to enable him to put through any but the most moderate legislative programme.

There was widespread feeling among observers to-day, however, that the Cosgrave party with its allies—farmers, independents and independent labor—would find its present membership of eighty-five reduced somewhat, but would still be in the majority.

JAPAN AIDED ITS NATIONALS

Hon. Vincent Massey Says Shanghai Invaded to Protect Them

Japan invaded Shanghai primarily for the protection of her nationals, in the opinion of Hon. Vincent Massey, who is visiting Victoria to-day.

"What, in your opinion, is Japan's object in invading Shanghai? Is it to force China to terms on the Manchurian dispute, or an effort to relieve the pressure of the boycott?" Mr. Massey was asked.

"The major reason, I believe, is for the protection of Japanese nationals," he replied. "But it may be that Japan conceives it possible by her action in Shanghai to break down anti-Japanese activities. In this I am not speaking categorically. But it would seem an ineffective method of dealing with a situation like that, because the boycott is an economic weapon instituted as an answer to Japanese aggression, and secondly, China could not help but regard it as a further demonstration of the very policy against which the boycott was levied."

NO JUSTIFICATION

"It has been suggested that Japan will not stop until her forces are in occupation of Nanking. What are your views on such a probability?" Mr. Massey was asked.

"Technically, China and Japan are not at war, and Japan could hardly justify such action on the ground of protecting her nationals," he said. "Mr. Massey was diffident about expressing an opinion on the French suggestion that the League of Nations might give 'leech' international armament. He stressed the fact that the league is a voluntary association of sovereign states and it was its obvious duty to maintain its power left through public opinion."

To arm the league as a sort of super-state, he thought, would be contrary to the entire conception of the organization.

There is a "core" of opinion in every country on which the league bases its strength, Mr. Massey pointed out. That core exists in Japan, but it is not another element in its power. In order to be effective in the existing crisis he reiterated, the league must have the complete backing of public opinion.

CARSON WILL FULLY UPHELD

The Eliza Jane Carson will, which has been before the courts for some months and was subject of a long argument before the sitting here of the Court of Appeal, has now been finally disposed of by a judgment handed down at the end of the week by Mr. Justice Fisher of the Supreme Court, following a three-day trial and the decision of the higher court on one of the points which cleared the way for the final disposition.

Mrs. Carson, known as the grand old pioneer lady of the Cariboo, died last May at the age of eighty-two. She left the 3,500-acre Carson estate ranch at Pavilion, B.C., on which a valuation of $25,000 has been placed in the estate. She also left $4,000 equity in a property in Vancouver.

The will was attacked by a son, Frederick John Carson, butcher, and daughter, Edna Ruth Law, nurse, both of Vancouver, who alleged that their mother was not of sound mind when she made the will; that she had religious hallucinations; and that her other son, Ernest Carson, M.P.P., had obtained from her a lease of the Carson ranch favorable to himself and disadvantageous to the interests of the others.

The judgment of the Supreme Court and also of the Court of Appeals vindicated Mr. Carson, clearing him of all the charges.

Under the will, which has been admitted to probate, two grandsons—William George Carson, butcher, and Ernest Carson, M.P.P., for Lillooet; Robert Henry Carson of Kamloops, who was unsuccessful Liberal candidate for Point Grey in the last provincial election; and Edna Ruth Law, who, however, has been left the income, and not the capital, of one-sixth of the residuary estate.

Kearns Will Make Jackie Fields Dodge Young Corbett Again

Slick Manager of Champion Demands $50,000 for a Title Bout

Joie Ray, Famous Marathon Runner, is a Champion of Misfortune

Has Been Robbed of Many Victories Through Whims of Lady Luck

JACK KEARNS is still a business man. When Jackie Fields defeated Lou Rouillard and took back the welterweight championship, after being in the background for a year and a half, he said he wanted to fight Young Corbett first and settle all disputes between them. Perhaps Fields felt that way, but Kearns is a business man. And Kearns is a business man. He offered $50,000 for Fields to meet Corbett in San Francisco. Kearns laughingly said he couldn't possibly consider any sum less than $50,000 for such a fight. That shows what a high opinion Kearns has of Corbett and Corbett's chance to put Fields back in the discard.

For two or three years Corbett has been the "uncrowned" welterweight champion. He has whipped Fields and Thompson to a frazzle in non-title matches, the champs insisting that Corbett must come in overweight to keep the title safe for the owners of the moment. As Fields is a good fighter and as clever as any welter who ever held the title, it means something when Kearns won't let him fight Corbett. The latter must be pretty good. Last year the National Boxing Association ruled Thompson must fight Corbett as the leading challenger. He threw down his money for that fight and tossed off his title for a lot less to Boston, but he didn't take the beating Corbett would most likely have given him.

Lady Luck is still carrying on her feud with Joie Ray. Track hero, Olympic runner, boxer, roller skater, snowshoe racer and dancing man, he has been an athlete extraordinary, but a champion, mostly, of misfortune. Joie lost his last marathon the other day because a girl arranged her hair. The event, a marathon dance, didn't mean a thing in sport. But it meant a lot to Joie—a $1,000 first prize. He and his partner had been on their feet 2,500 hours and with only one other couple left but a good chance of winning. But Joie's partner raised an arm to fix her hair and they were disqualified.

It was nearly twenty years ago when Joie started to run. He was a youngster working in a Chicago shoe shop and fighting in an occasional featherweight amateur bout. One day he saw a five-mile free-for-all race advertised. He entered and finished third. A few months later he tried again and won. As Ray forged ahead, gradually to become the greatest runner of distances between one and five miles in the United States, he had just one bright goal—the Olympic games. It had been his interest in the Stockholm tournament in 1912 that had started him training in earnest.

But hard-luck dogged the flying feet of Joie Ray. He was regarded as a sure winner in the mile in the 1916 Olympics, but the race was cancelled because of the World War.

Ray jealously guarded his amateur standing. To make a living, he drove a taxi in Chicago. He invaded the Chicago shoe shop and won the appellation of "Chester Jole" with his bold predictions. He entered the two-mile championship and said "show them some fellows what running really is." New York sneered, but "Chester Jole" won. And, as an incidental gesture, he set a new record for the mile and a half.

The first post-war Olympics, at Antwerp, found him with the American team. But he twisted an ankle on a rocky training track and lost. In 1924, he had still undimmed hope he won an Olympic berth again. This time Toronto snubbed him. He was still a contender, but he was still a contender, but he was still a contender.

Doctors cut his shoes from cruelly bruised feet and predicted he never could run again. But Ray, seeing his last chance for an Olympic triumph fleeting, entered the Long Beach, New York, marathon, scampers over the course like a scared rabbit, set a new record, and won a place on the 1928 Olympic team.

At Amsterdam he was leading the field at the last control point when he twisted some leg muscles. He finished fifth, under excruciating pain. Why? After that, Joie joined a six-day roller skating team in Madison Square Garden. He went to Philadelphia for a six-day "man vs. horse" endurance contest. He defeated the horse, but nobody cared except the S.P.C.A. He drifted from this to that.

Now that the dance marathon has ended in defeat, there's not much doing for Joie. He's a little sorry that in years past he had some harsh words with the A.A.U. for he'd like to get coaching job. He wants to handle the American marathon candidates and teach them how to snatch the victory that never was.

Former Turn Back Americans 3 to 1 In Slow, Ragged Game

Bruins Hold Onto Slim Chance of Making Play-off Berth in Major Hockey by Victory Over Amerks at New York; Detroit Rallies to Defeat Chicago Hawks 3 to 1; Ripley and Cox in Fight; Toronto's Victory Over Montreal Saturday Featured by Free-for-all Battle; Canadiens Beat Rangers

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Regarded as crippled with three of their regulars missing from the line-up, Toronto Maple Leafs surprised the fast-traveling Montreal Maroons Saturday when they blanked the Cleghorn squad 6 to 0 in one of the feature week-end contests in the National Hockey League.

Toronto's upset of Maroons, who had just enjoyed their best week of the season, left the Montreal Canadiens and Leafs tied for the leadership of the Canadian division, seven points in the van of Americans and Maroons.

Americans had their chance to pull in front of the Montrealers in the scoring night when they engaged Boston Bruins in New York, but after sixty minutes of dull hockey, dropped a 3-to-1 decision to the Bruins, who moved closer to a play-off berth when Detroit trounced Chicago 3-to-1 in the Falcon centre.

With their flashy net-minder, Lorne Chabot, under a game's suspension following an alleged assault on a goal-judge in Detroit last week, and their leading goal-scorer, Charlie Conacher, out with a fractured hand, Leafs were expected to fall before the rugged Montrealers, but from the opening gong the Toronto aggression were on the offensive and after "Ace" Bailey notched the first goal midway through the initial period a Toronto victory appeared certain.

"OLD-TIMERS" STAR
The "Kid" line of Leafs, who combine to lead the league in the scoring records, only ranked second to the "Old Timers" division, who accounted for the major portion of the goals. "Ace" Bailey and Frankie Finnigan, with two each, were the leading scorers, while Bob Gracie and "King" Clancy each added a goal. Benny Grant, brought from Syracuse to replace Chabot in the Toronto nets, turned in a stellar performance and with many miraculous saves managed to keep the high-scoring Maroons off the score sheet.

In the dying seconds of the game a fist fight broke out and, with the players on both sides as well as officials taking part in the battle, the crowd were treated to a wild free-for-all. After order was restored, Clancy, Levanick, Jackson and Day of Toronto, and Starr, Stewart, Conacher, Wilcox and Phillips of Maroons were given minor penalties.

Playing as though their world championship was at stake and giving one of their best performances of the season, the Leafs won in three goals in the first two periods and yielded only a single counter in the final session to earn a 3-to-1 victory over the Maroons.

A CLEAN GAME
The game ended the regular season meetings of the two clubs with Canadians on top, having won the series with three victories and a tie against two losses. Only two minor penalties were meted out by the officials and both were tacked on Howie Morenz for tripping.

Showing improved form over their recent starts, Bruins were quick to take advantage of the break and before half of the first period was over, enjoyed a two-goal margin on scores by Harry Oliver and "Doc" Clapper. American line-up after a game Saturday night with Toronto Maple Leafs in the National League, turned in a spectacular performance in Syracuse's goal but his defence weakened in the final session and Eddie Rodden and Joe Matte counted twice in quick succession. Savage counted the only Syracuse tally when he drafted a long shot at Baxter in the final minute of play.

LOSE SCORING PUNCH
Buffalo's scoring punch, which has been lacking in their recent starts, was again absent Saturday when Bisons shared two points with the tail-end Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, when they were held to a scoreless draw. Both clubs had excellent scoring chances in the final period but over-anxiousness cost Jackets the game when their forwards were in close numerous times but failed to score. Prior to the game it was announced Al Gauthier and Dutch Cain had been given their unconditional release by the Buffalo management.

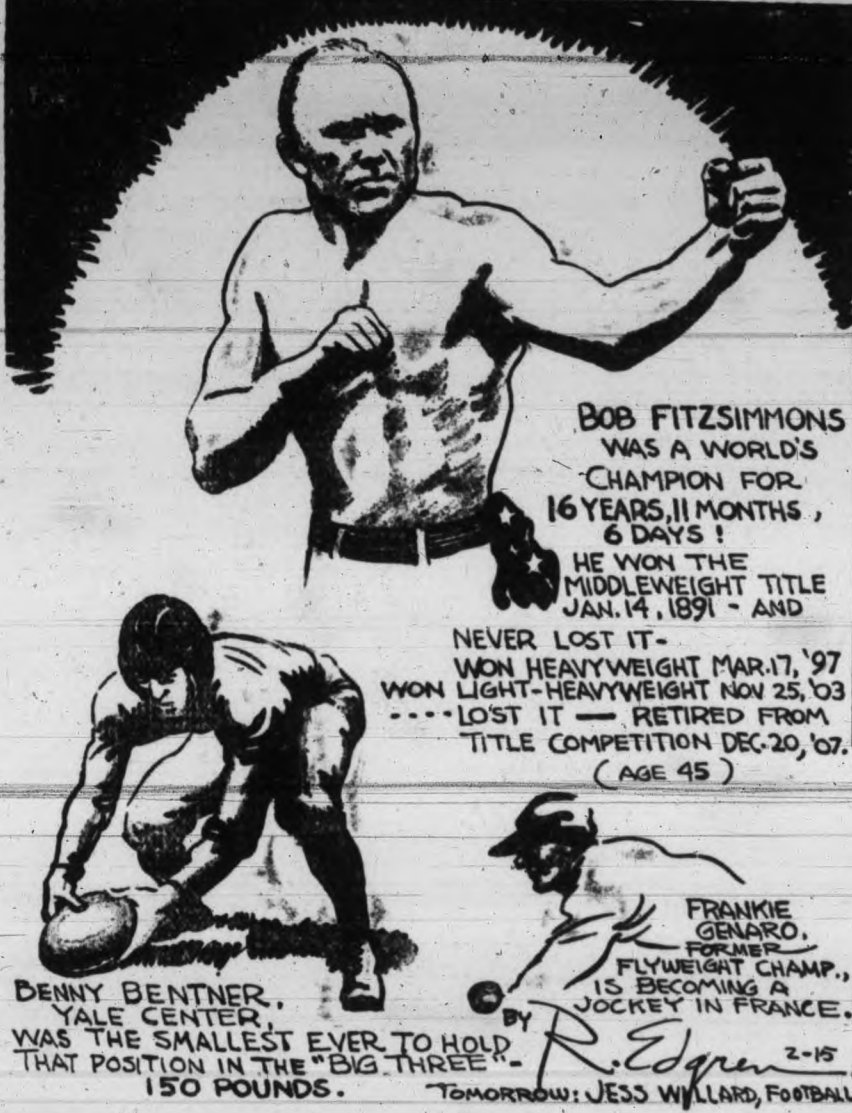

Two goals in the second period was all the scoring registered in a ragged game in Cleveland when Indians and Syracuse battled seventy minutes to a 1 to 1 draw. After Ken Doraty put the home team in front early in the second session on a pass from King Williams, Syracuse opened up a strong offensive drive and before the period ended Jack Markle gained an equalizer on an individual effort. Indians faltered badly in the overtime session but the Stars' snipers were off the mark and missed many easy scoring chances.

Junior Football
Junior football league teams will be engaged in the second round of the Davis Cup series on Saturday afternoon with the following matches scheduled:

Equinault vs. Victoria City at Victoria West Park.
Oaklands vs. Saanich Thistles at Spencer's Park.
Jokers vs. Y.M.C.A. at Hampton Road.
Royal Oak vs. Duncan at Reynolds Road.

Nels Stewart Out With Injured Hand

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Braun Nels Stewart, captain of the Montreal Maroons, will likely be out of the game for a month or more with a hand fracture sustained in the wild wind-up to Saturday night's Maroons-Leaf game here. In the general melee a skate came down on Stewart's right hand, lacerating the flesh and breaking a bone near the base of the thumb.

Loss of Stewart will be a serious blow to Maroons' play-off aspirations. He is the second ranking scorer of the club, having netted twenty-one goals and provided nine assists.

Montreal, Feb. 15.—Winnipeg, Canada's representatives at Lake Placid, who brought a third Olympic hockey title to the Dominion, and an all-star aggregation from the Montreal senior group will clash at the Forum here to-night in an exhibition match.

Winnipeg arrived here yesterday evening along with other members of Canada's Olympic team, a party of Swedish skiers, Sonja Henie, the famous skater, and her party and a large delegation of Montrealers who were in Lake Placid over the week-end.

Feats were greeted by a throng that numbered over 500 people.

The Pegs faced a full day to-day. A civic reception was tendered them at the offices of His Worship Mayor Camille Houde at the city hall in the morning. At 1 o'clock there was to be a luncheon given by the city of Montreal, at which his worship was to preside. The afternoon will be given over to sightseeing and following the game another reception tendered by local amateur hockey heads will be held.

Scottish Soccer Fans Cool Off In Jail After Melee

Police Forced to Use Batons Freely to Subdue Wild Crowd at Motherwell-Celtic Cup-tie Match; Free-for-all Fights are Numerous; Women Faint and Ambulance Does Rushing Business; Club Flags and Bunting Torn Down by Mob; English Teams Play Cup Games in Arctic Weather

Glasgow, Scotland, Feb. 15.—Hundreds of violent soccer partisans nursed broken heads, while a number cooled off in the police station after Saturday's Scottish Football Association cup-tie match at Motherwell, where Celtic, the cupholders, went down to defeat.

To begin with, the police had trouble handling the enormous crowd on hand. The regular accommodation for 30,000 spectators was taken up before the match started and thousands rushed over barriers, invaded the pitch and tried to get into the stands. Quiet was only restored after the police had made several charges.

Then the Motherwell and Celtic clans started free fights all over the place and the police were forced to use batons freely and made numerous arrests. Women fainted by the dozen and the ambulance men spent a busy afternoon. The crowd tore down all the club flags and bunting and carried them away.

The Motherwell game, which was the feature match of the Scottish Cup series, was a great triumph for the home eleven. After twenty-two minutes of play, McDougall of the Celtic team, harassed by Murdoch, passed the ball past Kennerly into his net for Motherwell's first score. Perrier scored Motherwell's second marker fifteen minutes from the end. The attendance was placed at 35,000, a ground record. McGrory, who left a sickbed to appear for Celtic, played himself into a state of exhaustion and finally was carried from the ground.

ANOTHER GROUND RECORD
Fifty-five thousand, another ground record, witnessed Heart's elimination from the series at Edinburgh by Rangers. Marshall scored for the Glasgow club after fifteen minutes of play. The same player gave away a penalty after Massie had handled. Hamilton dived and saved brilliantly. King, of the Hearts' side, was ordered off at the morning. At 1 o'clock there was to be a luncheon given by the city of Montreal, at which his worship was to preside. The afternoon will be given over to sightseeing and following the game another reception tendered by local amateur hockey heads will be held.

At Shawfield, 12,000 gathered to see Clyde win promotion by beating St. Bernard's. Boyd goalied twice for the Rangers on smart shots. Dundee United and Kilmarnock played to a 1-to-1 draw before 15,000 at Tannadice Park. The United led through Gardner's goal at the interval, and Kilmarnock equaled through Maxwell. The United should have won on the run of the play.

London, Feb. 15.—Arctic weather in England on Saturday failed to chill the enthusiasm of crowds and players in English Football Association cup cities, though the treacherous grounds, on which snow lingered in some places, made scientific soccer difficult. The triumph of Arsenal at Portsmouth has installed them as favorites to win the trophy, though the north will produce a strong challenge through such clubs as Manchester City, Leeds, and Bolton.

Canadian Athletes Did Very Well At Lake Placid Sports

Dominion's Representatives Carried Off Good Share of Honors at Olympic Winter Games; Winnipeg by Winning Hockey Crown Gave Canada Major Title of Meet; Emil St. Goddard, Curlers and Women Speed Skaters Give Fine Performances in Demonstration Events; Games Brought to Close in Blinding Snowstorm

Lake Placid, N.Y., Feb. 15.—The Canadian Olympic Winter Games contingent struck their tents and left this Adirondack village for home yesterday. They did not come back empty-handed either, for the hockey championship of the third Olympic winter games will travel west with the Winnipeg, stouthearted band of Canadian hockey players, who stood their ground through three hectic overtime periods in the final game Saturday to turn back the greatest threat the United States has ever made for the title, though the final score was 2 to 2 the Canadians came out of the series two points ahead of the Americans.

It was the one Olympic title Canada was able to capture as contestants from seventeen nations struggled through two weeks of keen competition for the coveted Olympic honors in skiing, speed skating, figure skating, bobsledding and hockey.

The United States Olympic team had captured five titles up to yesterday with one bobsledding event to be decided yet on that breathless slide down the side of Mount Van Hoevenburg. The Americans carried off the championships in the four men's speed skating events, and the two-man bobsled race.

NORWAY TAKES THREE
Prodigious leaps from the Intervales ski hill by youthful Norwegian jumpers and the easy grace of Miss Sonja Henie, pretty blonde figure skater, captured three Olympic titles for Norway. Both the combined racing and jumping event and the big Olympic jump went to the Norwegians.

The Canadians' hockey title stood as her lone contribution to the Olympic tablet of honor, though Canadians gained places among the leaders in several events.

Finland won the fifty-kilometre ski race Saturday, and France also gained one title when Pierre and Andree were judged the winners of the figure skating championship for pairs.

The showing of the Canadians throughout the winter Olympiad was most encouraging. In Olympic events Alex Hurd, Hamilton, was a close second to Jack Shea in the 500 metres speed skating, and took third place in the 500-metre event. Willie Logan, St. John's, was third in the 1,500-metre and third in the 5,000 metres. Frank Stack, Winnipeg, placed third in the 10,000 metres and fourth in the 500 metres dash, and fourth in the 1,500 metres. Montgomery Wilcox, Toronto, was third in the men's figure skating competition, and his sister, Constance Wilson Samuel, placed fourth in the women's division.

CANUCKS DO WELL
The Maple Leaf was much to the fore in the demonstration events on the programme. Four rinks of Canadian curlers representing Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and the Northwest Territories won twelve out of sixteen curling matches with four United States rinks, Manitoba's curlers coming through the series victorious.

Emil St. Goddard, The Pas, Manitoba, defeated Leonard Seppala, Alaska, in a fifty-miles dog sled race, and Shorty Russell, Elm Point, Man., placed third in the sled race. Steve Jovite, Quebec, won the sled race.

John Wilson, Toronto, beat an impressive array of women speed skaters to win the 500 metres race for women, with Lella Brooke-Potter, also of Toronto, fourth. Mrs. Potter hung up two new world records in two successive days, having won the 500 metres and the 1,000 metres, and 1,500 metres distances, though she lost the final heat in both cases. Hattie Donaldson, Toronto, placed second in the 100 metres final, and Jean Wilson was second in the 1,500 metres event after Mrs. Potter fell.

Canadian skiers had to bow to the Scandinavian representatives of that sport. Harry Parry, Ontario, and John Currie, John Taylor and Bud Clark, all of Ottawa, were far down the list at the finish of the eighteen kilometre race. David H. Douglas, Ottawa, and Wally Ryan not completing the thirty-one mile test. Four Canadian jumpers were halfway down the list in the Olympic ski jump. Bob Lyburne, Revelstoke, B.C., was nineteenth, and Jacques Laroche, Ottawa jumper, placed twentieth. Arnold Stone, Vancouver, and Les Gagn, Montreal, were twenty-ninth and thirtieth.

TERRIFIC STORM
The games closed officially Saturday in a blinding snowstorm, though the four-man bobsled heats continued yesterday and to-day. Saturday a brass band blared through the blizzard at the stadium as the Olympic medals were presented. National anthems were swallowed in the swirling curtain of snow.

The Canadian hockey team stepped forward, still panting from their exertions in winning the hockey title a few minutes before. Each of the Winnipeg players received a medal and stood at attention for the Canadian national air. The bandmaster raised his baton, and the "Bavarian Love Song" came with luring sweetness upon the frosty air.

"Y" MATMEN SHOW FORM

Give Good Exhibitions to Members of Ganges Athletic Club

Twenty Y.M.C.A. wrestlers under the supervision of G. R. Lovatt, coach, and W. S. Maguire of the Y.M.C.A., gave one of the best and fastest wrestling displays ever seen on Salt Spring Island, at the Ganges Athletic Club rooms, Saturday evening.

The president, W. Evans; Secretary, L. W. Jenkins and the committee, composed of A. Stacey, L. Mount, C. Mount, H. Caldwell and G. Elliott of the Ganges Athletic Club, met the visitors on arrival and took them to supper at the hotel.

A large number of people attended the wrestling bouts, put on entirely by the "Y" Wrestling Club.

The boys were particularly keen to obtain victories, as the winners in events may decide later who will represent the "Y" at the Pacific Northwest wrestling championships, being held in Portland in March.

L. Moore and Len Jones opened the evening with a fast three rounds, both men gaining a fall after a keen struggle in the 125 pound class.

C. Becher won with two straight falls from W. Naymish in the 145 pound class.

Pete Tyson, B.C. lightweight champion in 1931, won a close bout from V. Stevens after a strenuous struggle at catch weight.

They were given a great deal of applause.

BOLAS SWINGING

Jack Hartree was the specialist of the evening, giving a wonderful display of bolas swinging. His performance with lighted bolas made a great hit with those present, the applause breaking out again and again, as he made the rapid swinging changes from one set to another.

Fred Loeffler and F. Joubin in the 130 pound class each gained a fall in a clever three-round bout.

Harold Luney and Bob Wright, at catch weight, put on a strenuous bout, Luney winning the only fall of the match.

Tremendous speed in the 125-pound class was shown by C. Sharp and J. Yates. Sharp won in thirty seconds with a flying scissors, only to lose the second fall in forty-five seconds to Yates with a scissors on the body and the bout ended in a draw.

F. Bourne gained the only fall from W. Blair and won the 120-pound bout, while in the 35-pound class K. Roskelley and C. Chambers gave an aggressive display of toe hold. After a gruelling contest of three rounds the bout ended with no fall.

In the 175-pound class Vic Stevens and Harold Luney put up a wonderful display. This bout was easily the most strenuous of the evening and brought the crowd to their feet many times.

F. Loeffler and Pete Tyson put on the final exhibition without a fall to close the fine display.

DAULA WINS WITH A SLAM

Indian Wrestler Puts Nick Valcoff Out Cold in Fourth Round

"Rocky" Brooks Loses to Al Karasick on a Foul; Chief of Police in Ring

Tiger Daula, the big fellow from India, tossed over another of the leading heavyweight wrestlers from the United States at the Tillicum Gymnasium on Saturday evening, when he body slammed Nick Valcoff, San Francisco, so hard in the fourth round that he was finished for the evening. Daula played around with Valcoff like a cat with a mouse for three rounds, and then polished him off with a crushing body slam. In the semi-windup Al Karasick, veteran Portland heavyweight, won on a foul from "Rocky" Brooks, Victoria, the local grappler, being disqualified for using the strangle hold. It was necessary for Chief of Police Heatley to step into the ring and separate Brooks and Karasick. The gym was packed to capacity with a large number being turned away owing to lack of accommodation.

In the opening round Daula took things easy and appeared to be stalling up his opponent. The East Indian attempted to put on a couple of holds, but Valcoff broke free by stamping on his bare toes. This appeared to cause Daula no little pain, but one would never have known it by the quiet, determined look on his face. Daula clamped on a toe hold, but Valcoff kicked free and threw Daula to the mat with a wristlock. Daula jumped up and threw Valcoff to the mat with flying mares. Valcoff secured a toe hold as the bell sounded.

TICKLES HIS FEET

With the opening of the second round Daula put on a leg split, but Valcoff kicked the bottom of the East Indian's feet to break the hold. On another occasion when he was in a wristlock Daula pulled Daula's long whiskers to make him let go. The crowd got a great laugh out of the trick. At this stage Valcoff commenced using elbow butts and he shook up Daula, but the East Indian kept coming right back for more. He is one tough hombre and it will take a mighty good man to beat him.

At the beginning of the third round the pair were grappling on the ropes and both slipped through on to the floor. Upon rising to their feet they continued their battle outside the ropes and it took Referee Richardson and several of the spectators a few minutes to break them. Both started using flying kicks, but none of them were effective. Daula put on another leg split, but Valcoff got one foot free and kicked clear. Daula had another leg stretch as the bell.

The fourth round had just commenced when Daula picked his man up and slammed him to the mat for the first fall and the end of the match. Although Valcoff weighed 230 pounds the East Indian picked him up like he would a child. Daula's weight was announced as 235.

A ROUGH BOUT

The semi-windup produced plenty of action, with both Karasick and Brooks resorting to rough tactics, and it was not long before they had the crowd in an uproar. In the first round the pair started using rabbit punches, elbow butts and the knee with the honors about even. At the start of the second Karasick got Brooks groggy with rabbit punches and flying mares, and then put his shoulders to the mat with a body-pin. Brooks was out for nearly a minute.

Early in the third round Brooks hurt Karasick badly with a flying tackle and then put him out through the ropes with another. When the Russian climbed back into the ring Brooks knocked him over with another butt and made him tap the mat with a Boston crab.

It was in the fourth that all the trouble started. The pair were battling for the tying fall when Brooks suddenly grabbed Karasick around the throat in a strangle hold. Referee Richardson after considerable trouble pulled Brooks off, but the local heavyweight stepped in and put on another strangle. After struggling for several seconds Richardson broke the hold and awarded the bout to Karasick. Just about this time Chief of Police Heatley had climbed through the ropes, but he went back to his seat when the pair broke. After putting on his dressing gown Karasick walked over to Brooks' corner and took a swing at "Rocky" and the two were at it again. Once again Chief Heatley jumped into the ring, and taking Brooks by the arm escorted him from the ring.

Last Voyage of Old Schooner Recalled

Story of Tragedy and Heroism on Shepody Bay, in New Brunswick, Told After Fifty Years; Moncton Man Treasures Watch Presented to His Father for Bravery When the Annie Bogart Went Down

Hopewell, N.B., Feb. 15.—The Christmas season, to many of the older residents who looked across the windswept waters of Shepody Bay, recalled a tragedy of the sea, just fifty years ago, when darkness and storm and the treacherous reefs of Grindstone Island carried a good ship to its doom and sent half of the crew to watery graves.

Mixed with the tragedy was the heroic rescue of three men by Light-keeper John R. Stiles of that day, and a volunteer, Allen Fales, who received official recognition by the Canadian Government.

Fifty years ago, on December 22, 1881, the Annie Bogart, coal-burner from Dorchester, headed the bay with the wind against her and a storm threatening. The storm breaking, the vessel rounded the west end of the island to seek shelter in Five Fathom Hold. In the darkness the vessel kept close to the island side of the channel, in the state of the tide, and crashed on the reef almost abreast of the light. When flood tide made, about two hours later, the southwest wind increased in violence, and in the blinding rain and driving gale, the craft beat over the reef and about an eighth of a mile further in, struck another reef and sank.

The cries of the men at first were not heard at the light, but Stiles saw the torch signals of distress, and leaving his assistant in charge of the light, hurried to Mud Cove, near the other end of the island. There he secured a boat better suited to his purpose than the island boat, and, with Allen Fales, a Hopewell man, and two Frenchmen from the quarry, set out for the wreck.

Out some distance the two Frenchmen gave up and had to be landed. Stiles and Fales continuing the rescue trip alone. When the boat reached the doomed vessel it was on its beam ends, with hull about submerged and masts almost horizontal, some eight or ten feet above the water. On one of these the six members of the crew were clinging. With the skill of an expert boatman, Stiles brought his little craft under the awing spar. As three of the men in turn dropped into the water, they were hauled into the boat. These were Capt. Slocum, Digby, N.S.; Mate McLean and a sailor. Before the three left could be saved, the mast fell and carried them to their death in the seething waters. The boat was backed away in the nick of time to avoid the spar as it crashed into the sea.

The heroic action of the lightkeeper and his companion was brought to the attention of the Marine Department. The lightkeeper was presented with a valuable watch and his companion received a sum of money. The watch, now in the possession of Silas Stiles, Moncton, a son of the lightkeeper,

Around the Docks

From the United Kingdom, by way of the Panama Canal and California ports, the Furness motorliner Pacific Pioneer docked at the Elkhart pier yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. She proceeded to Vancouver at 8.30 o'clock yesterday evening and reached the mainland pier early this morning.

Capt. R. H. Leaman reported an average four-week voyage from London, with rough spells of weather on both the Atlantic and the Pacific.

For Victoria the Pacific Pioneer had seventy tons of general cargo. There was only one passenger aboard for Vancouver, all the European passengers having left at Los Angeles and San Francisco last week.

There are 150 tons of general cargo for Victoria aboard the inbound freighter Rochelle of the Kingston Navigation Company's fleet. She will arrive this evening or early to-morrow morning from San Francisco and dock at the Ogden Point pier. Yesterday evening, at 8 o'clock, the Rochelle was 177 miles from Victoria, according to a report received at the Gonzales Wireless Station.

Returning from Alaska, the C.P.R. steamer Princess Mary is scheduled to reach Vancouver to-morrow morning. She will sail for the north again on February 22. She will not come to Victoria this trip, being scheduled to make a short trip to Coast points between her Alaska trips.

The Canadian National freighter Canadian Winner is due at the Ogden Point pier late Tuesday evening or early Wednesday morning from Halifax, by way of the Panama Canal, according to the local C.N. freight office. She has only about 100 tons of general cargo for Victoria here this trip. Yesterday evening, at 8 o'clock, the wireless operator on the Winner reported the position of the ship 177 miles from Victoria, according to a report received at Gonzales.

The Pacific-Argentine-Brazil freighter West Nottus, well known at this port, where she has been many times, is listed to load in Seattle on Thursday of this week. She will take general cargo for Porto Rico and the coast of South America. The West Nottus is now in drydock. She will follow the West Coast, which cleared from British Columbia and Puget Sound ports last week with a full cargo.

The Canadian Australasian liner Niagara, bound for Australia and New Zealand, is steadily approaching this port and yesterday evening was 1,592 miles south of Honolulu. After a call at the Hawaiian port the liner will arrive here on February 23 or 24.

Construction of the new $10,000,000 liner Manhattan for the transatlantic service of the United States Lines is now progressing on schedule, according to word received in Victoria this morning. The new ship is expected to enter the service this summer. She is now over 75 per cent completed. About 1,600 men are employed on her. Construction on the Manhattan's sister ship, known only as No. 406, is up to schedule also. Announcement of the date of launching is expected shortly.

After receiving thorough overhaul and minor repairs at the Esquimalt plant of Yarrow's Limited, the Vancouver freighter Griffon, owned and operated by the Coastwise Steamship and Barge Company, left Esquimalt yesterday and proceeded to Ladysmith and Nanaimo to load for the north. Repairs were completed on the ship Saturday evening.

With a full general cargo, including portable power for the Northern Transportation Company's motorship Norco passed by Victoria early this morning on her way from Seattle to the north-eastern Alaska ports. In addition to regular cargo the Norco had aboard the final equipment of Lynch Brothers Company, contractors for drilling in the Athabasca Ridge district of the Matanuska coal fields.

C.P.R. WAGE CASE ARGUED TO-DAY
Montreal, Feb. 15.—Expectation that the report of the board of conciliation mediating between the Canadian Pacific Railway and its 7,000 railway clerks, station employees and freight handlers might be handed down to-day was negated by word that the railway company had decided to reply to the men's submission. The submission of the company in favor of the proposed 10 per cent wage cut was presented to the board two weeks ago and the men's case was argued Friday last. The railway said it would tender a reply to the latter submission sometime to-day.

CREW OF SHIP CONQUERS FIRE

Swedish Freighter, 425 Miles East of Halifax, Reports Help Not Needed

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 15.—Fire aboard the Swedish motorship Hallaren, which sent four transatlantic steamships speeding to her assistance 150 miles east of Sable Island, had been extinguished at 10 o'clock this forenoon and the captain advised the vessel no longer needed aid.

The Hallaren's first SOS at 8.46, Atlantic standard time, reported fire between two decks, and the C.P.R. freighter Beaverford, westbound for St. John from Antwerp, altered its course to go to the ship's aid. The Beaverford was thirty-five miles away at the time, and had not reached the Hallaren when the captain of the Swedish vessel radioed the blaze had been quenched.

Canadian Press
New York, Feb. 15.—The captain of the Swedish freighter Hallaren sent an SOS this morning, saying fire had broken out in the vessel's hold about 425 miles east of Halifax, but later advised rescue vessels the ship was in no further need of assistance.

A message received by the Mackay Radio Company and the Radiomarine Corporation said the fire was out. The British steamship Beaverford, only thirty-five miles away, had been speeding to the rescue of the Hallaren, which carried a crew of twenty-five officers and men.

The SOS halted broadcasting along the coast for about twenty minutes.

Victoria and Island Publicity Commissioner and Secretary of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Who is receiving birthday congratulations to-day, is endowed with a restless activity and a spirit of enterprise which makes him have to his own town and any of the scores he visits establishing valuable contacts for the Victoria tourist business.

Foremost and ambition have helped him make a success of his job. He was one of those who saw the future of the tourist business depended on the automobile and never rested until they had arranged for an old help harvester to be turned into a pioneer automobile ferry and then kept at the job until the modern ferry system was established to assure Victoria a permanent place on the highway of tourist travel.

Once when a kid in California he made a clean-up under the nose of the keenest politicians and business men of the United States. A small news item announced the city of Richmond was to have a mail delivery within six months. When a big harware firm later sent their salesmen round to sell letter boxes they found George and another college boy had, during their vacation, sold the whole city.

He was through the San Francisco earthquake and was mentioned in the newspapers for some gallant rescue work.

He claims he caught the fish shown in the above picture but there is no other evidence to that effect.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

GEORGE I. WARREN
FRED. P. WALKER

Prices for oil are still very low and things look very promising for the Canadian whalers," stated Capt. George Le Marquand, managing-director of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation this morning when asked if the whaling fleet, which makes Victoria its home port, would go to the grounds this season. There is a possibility that one or two of the ships may go north, but this was not decided until later.

Last season was the first time in many years that the whaling fleet did not leave this port. They remained tied up all summer and are still lying idle at the whaling company's wharf, near the Point Ellis bridge. The six steamers are there while their crews are having one of the longest shore leaves in their careers. The ships are the W. Grant, Green, Blue, White, Black, Brown, and the ten Grey, which looks after the supplies and the transportation of the whale oil from the stations at Ross and Naden Harbors to Seattle.

Single Try Gives Scots Victory and Senior Rugby Lead

Highlanders Move Out in Front With 3-to-0 Win Over Navy; Wanderers and Gunners Battle to 3-to-3 Draw; University School and Wanderers Stay Ahead of Field in Intermediate Division by Blanking Scottish and Bays, Respectively; Victoria College Beats Brentwood

With "Blinkie" Tisdall crossing the line on the only real three-quarter run of the game, to score the lone try of the fixture, Canadian Scottish moved out in front of the second half of the local senior rugby league with a 3 to 0 win over the Navy at the Canteen grounds on Saturday. Wanderers and the Gunners, victors in the games on February 6, battled to a three-all tie at Oak Bay Park in the other first division game.

University School and the Oak Bay Wanderers retained the lead in the intermediate division with an 11 to 0 victory over the Canadian Scottish and a 6 to 0 win over the J.B.A.A. respectively, while College, defeated by the Mount Tolmie boys the week before, came back to down the Brentwood boys, their traditional rivals, 6 to 0 at Tod Inlet.

Rugged forward plays and ceaseless kicking featured the Highlanders' win over the Navy at the Canteen grounds. Neither Backfield was used to any great extent except on the defensive. On the whole the rugby displayed was hard but unimpressive. Both squads were below their usual standards.

The Navy pressed down from the kick off and held the troops in their own ground until Sid Northington relieved with a pretty kick to the blue-jackets' twenty-five. Godfrey Wenman downed Robinson before he had a chance to clear and the Scots maintained the attack.

Horne returned a Navy clearance kick and Bryden scored an advantage on a kicking exchange with Robinson, the Navy full back.

On a sustained assault the clansmen forced over from a fifteen-yard loose scrum, but one of the sailors got his hands to the ball for a twenty-five-yard kick.

Play swung from end to end in a series of kicks, both teams sharing about equally in ineffectual attacks.

Several promising attempts at three-quarter runs by the Highlanders were ruined by poor passing and interceptions by the tars.

Taking the ball at midfield, Putnam broke away on a dangerous run, but was brought down by Bryden on the troops' ten-yard line. Robson was hurt, but returned to the game for the Scots.

Still pressing, the sailors forced over but one of the troops' backs touched down for a twenty-five-yard kick. The Scottish backed back from their own ground and Osman broke away with a kick. Robinson secured and pointed to the Highlanders' fifteen-yard line, where he recovered his own kick. Following a scrum he tried for a drop goal, but the ball went wide.

At half-time play was at midfield without any scores.

Bernard was hurt early in the second half, but remained in the game. The Navy attacked, using their kicks to advantage, but failed to get through. Northington cleared but Swetnam led the sailors back on a rush to the corner of the troops' line.

Again the Highlanders broke away, but Smith, Navy backfield man, who was playing a smart kicking game, returned the ball to the troops' ground with a nice punt.

TRIES FOR FIELD GOAL

Godfrey Wenman and Bruce Forbes broke away to lead the Scots down on a loose dribble. Horne tried for a drop goal from the sailors' twenty-five but the ball failed to leave the ground.

Hudson and Smith, kicking as soon as they got the ball from the scrum, worked play back into the Highlanders' ground. Northington and Henderson opened up a promising attack with a nice run to the blue-jackets' twenty-yard line, but the sailors came back, led by Donald and Swetnam.

Bryden cleared after Hudson and Smith had combined again on their kicking play, and after another punting interchange the troops gained a scrum forty yards out from the Navy line.

Horne drove a kick to the Navy ten-yard line and Northington secured. He started to try for a field goal, but was charged down and the Navy smashed through to their thirty-yard line.

The troops were given a free kick when the sailors played feet up, but Forbes' attempt for goal just missed. The tars opened up their kicking game again and reached the Scots' twenty-five. Pat Parr led a dribble back to centre.

LONE TRY

From a scrum in this part of the field, the troops heeled clear. Pollard secured and whipped the ball to Robinson who threw to Northington. Northington passed to Henderson who made a pretty opening and threw out to Tisdall on the wing. Tisdall streaked down the line and went over near the corner on the only good three-quarter movement of the day for the winning try. Forbes missed his kick for extra points.

For the remaining six minutes of the game the sailors tried hard but failed to penetrate the Scottish defence. H. A. Tomlin refereed and the teams lined up as follows: Navy—Robinson, Anderson, Putnam, Williams, Freeman, Hibbert, Smith, Hudson, Swetnam, Swetnam, Donald, Combs, Brewer, Bamfield and Hall.

Scottish—Bryden, Robson, Henderson, Tisdall, Northington, Horne, Pollard, Lamb, Wenman, Parr, Osman, Crofton, May, Forbes and Bernard.

FIGHT TO DRAW

Crashing over the line in a driving forward attack, Ingils saved Oak Bay Wanderers from defeat at the hands of the Fifth Regiment in the other senior game at Oak Bay Park. His try equalized that scored by Cox earlier in the second half of the rugged fixture.

In the opening period both teams put up hard battles, with the Gunners showing a slight edge. Graham Douglas and Ted Robinson made good attempts for penalty goals on free kicks but were unable to send the ball between the uprights.

On one of the best rushes of the half, D'Arcy and Buller broke away for a good gain, but J. H. Wright, Butler down before he could get over and Symons cleared with a smart kick to touch.

"Muzz" Patrick and Harold Engleson showed up well in the Gunners' attacks in the second half, but were only able to gain ground without getting over the Wanderers' line.

GUNNERS SCORE

Following a forward and backfield attack, Cox of the Gunners, secured and raced over near the corner. His try was disputed on the grounds that he had run out near the line, but was allowed by Referee Grant. Patrick's kick for extra points won wide.

Shortly after the Wanderers opened up a terrific onslaught, forcing two five-yard scrums in the Gunners' ground. After the second they pushed their way across and went down. Ingils was found on top of the ball when the players got up. Symons' attempt to convert just missed.

G. C. Grant refereed and the teams were:

Wanderers—Andrews, Ware, Golby, Pease, Gann, Ingils, Usher, Symons, King, Dunsmuir, Hood, Gilmore, Fanning, de Blaquiere and G. Douglas.

Fifth Brigade—Cotton, Bristolow, Phillion, H. Engleson, M. Patrick, Le Marquand, McDonald, Buller, Rasmussen, Cox, R. Engleson, Robinson, D'Arcy, Dowell and Slevens.

COLLEGE DOWNS BRENTWOOD

A penalty goal by Bob Carey and try by Bob Macbee in the first half gave Victoria College its 6-to-0 victory over Brentwood in Saturday's intermediate fixture and redeemed the Craigdarroch students for their defeat the preceding week.

The blue-and-gold squad dominated the first half, showing much improved form over their other appearances in the second round of the schedule.

Following a good rush into the Brentwood grounds, Carey secured his free kick and sent the ball between the uprights for the first try.

Before the interval Ted Colgate made a pretty opening for Macbee to carry the ball over for the other points.

In the second half, the blackshirts had the Craigdarroch boys working hard to avert a score, but could not penetrate the blue-and-gold defence.

Colgate refereed.

MERCER, BROWN STAR

Mercer and Brown starred in the University School's 11-to-0 victory over the Canadian Scottish. Heavy forward work featured the first half, which went scoreless. Scots enjoyed a fair share of the play until about the middle of second half when the School opened up its scoring bee.

Derbyshire refereed.

Scoring on a forward rush, led by Banks in the first half, and adding another three points in the second when Burgess crashed his way through. Wanderers kept right in the running for the intermediate second-half title with their 6-to-0 win over the Bays at Victoria High grounds. Both teams turned in good games.

PARK RANGERS BEAT INDIANS

Nanaimo Squad Scores Odd-goal Victory in Bagatini Cup Soccer

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Feb. 15.—Nanaimo Park Rangers eliminated the Native Sons (all Indian) team from the Bagatini Cup series by the odd goal in nine here yesterday, the final score being 5 to 4. The Rangers were decidedly lucky to win, as the Indians were the better team, giving a splendid display of combination and positional play.

For the first forty minutes the Indians completely outplayed the Rangers. Rice opened the scoring for the Indians after fifteen minutes with a fine shot after pretty work on the right wing. Ten minutes later T. Jones made a brilliant run on the left wing and scored with a sizzling shot, increasing the Indians' lead.

The Rangers assumed the aggressive, forcing three corners. Sharp, Rangers' outside left, made a good run and shot into the Indian goalie, who fisted it away. Jackson met the ball and drove it into the net just before half time. At the interval the score was 2 to 1.

On resuming the Indians made for the goal, but Hindmarch relieved. Rangers pressed and Jackson equalized after fifteen minutes. The Indians showed up and the Rangers ran in three soft goals in ten minutes through Jackson scoring two and Kulal one. The Indians lived up again and S. Jones, Indians rightwing, ran clean through and scored. The Indians kept up the pressure and T. Jones, centre half, scored from forty yards. The final whistle found the Indians striving hard to equalize.

C. Seward, Rice, P. Jones and T. Seward were the pick of the Indians. Jackson and Kulal starred for the Rangers.

Veregin Urged To Aid Officials

Canadian Press

Regina, Feb. 15.—A suggestion that Peter Veregin, leader of the Doukhobors in Canada, come before the members of the provincial government, as an act of good faith and co-operation with authorities in respect to matters affecting the colonies, was made to a delegation of five that met the government Saturday.

J. G. Bondareff, Veregin's secretary, headed the delegation, which included Peter Markoff, barrister of Saskatoon. Mr. Markoff acted as interpreter.

The delegation expressed concern over possible deportation of their leader, who was recently listed for trial at Yorkton on a charge of tampering with witnesses. The government denied being "behind" the arrest of Peter Veregin.

Co-operation of Doukhobor leaders in connection with the burning of some twenty-five school houses in Doukhobor settlements was suggested by members of the government. The R.C.M.P. is known, have encountered considerable difficulty in investigating the fire.

The delegation stated it could make no promises on the part of Veregin in regard to the suggestion that he meet the government and discuss the relationship of the group he leads with officials.

ATOMS WEIGHED BY GREAT SCALES MADE BY SCIENTISTS

By Howard W. Baleslee, Associated Press Science Editor

New York, Feb. 15.—A precision mass spectrometer, a two-ton scale by which physicists weigh individual atoms, has been announced by the American Institute of Physics.

The scales, which figuratively "tilt" under the weight of one sextillionth of an ounce, were built by Dr. Kenneth T. Bainbridge of the Bartol Foundation at Swarthmore, Pennsylvania. From the readings of this instrument physicists expect great things toward practical human progress.

Atoms are weighed to discover their lost "packing fractions." This fraction is a tiny loss in weight, something missing from the atomic centre, or nuclei. It is believed to be energy which escaped during creation of the atoms.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan believes a cosmic ray is one of these packing fractions, which goes shooting across space at the speed of light. Identification of all the fractions is expected to help solve the puzzle of the structure of atomic nuclei, and ultimately to enable chemists to make more synthetic wonders and perhaps aid engineers in developing more efficient engines.

SCOTTISH SOCCER FANS COOL OFF IN JAIL AFTER MELEE

As Huddersfield Town and Newcastle United, both of which clubs won handsily.

Despite the conditions Arsenal played the Portsmouth defence. The southerners nearly carried the Arsenal goal in the opening minutes, every Portsmouth forward in turn shooting. Moss, in goal, beating down one drive with his open hand. Eventually the ball was scrambled away.

BASTIN SCORES

Then Arsenal's little Scottish wizard, James, picked up a loose pass at the halfway line, dribbled past three Portsmouthians, and shrewdly pushed the ball to Bastin, who scored. Parker, the Arsenal captain, later lying face downwards in the snow, stemmed another threatening Portsmouth attack and Moss, hustled by two forwards, and hard pressed was relieved by the versatile Jack, who cleared from the very lip of the goal. Finally, Hume, with a top-speed, swirling run, cut the Portsmouth defence in two and rattled in another Arsenal goal with a splendidly successful shot.

From the north the big guns were also booming. Added to the threat of Huddersfield and Newcastle is the competition of Manchester City and Liverpool. The last-named team wriggled by against Grimsby Town by 1 to 0. Hodgson combined with Barton to give a fine pass to Gunson, who headed in. Huddersfield, who have not lost a cup tie at home since the war, beat Preston North End, who were wrecked on their international rock, Goodall. In 1922 Huddersfield rather luckily beat Preston North End in the final game to win the cup. Newcastle United showed adaptability to beat Leicester City and are a much improved team. In addition to the northern clubs mentioned there is also Sheffield Wednesday, who Saturday drew with Chelsea and spoiled an eleven-year record of success in cup ties at home. They on Wednesday were robbed of victory by Law, who equalized from a free kick, netting a rising shot at great pace over the heads of a cordon of Sheffielders.
